No Major Casualties Are Reported Here In Battle of Nylons

By BERT NIGHTINGALE

A couple of women stepping briskly through the crowds which thronged the length and breadth of the downtown section of 101 street Tuesday morning, arched themselves an eyebrow, and indulged in the following conversational by-play:

"Women are crazy."

"Yes, but men are goofier."

THAT WAS THE IMPRESSION with which they, together with a batch of other citizens and a brace of news photographers and writers were left as the Edmonton campaign in the Dominion-wide "battle of the nylons" swept through local stores.

The battle was brief but hectic. Casualty lists would run about as follows:

ABOLISHED

One pair of second-rate rayon stockings which were found discarded near the women's rest room of a prominent department store.

DAMAGED

The temper of one elderly citizen who stated that he had stood in line since 8 a.m. only to reach the counter and find that he had left his wallet at home.

DISAPPOINTED

Scores of women and girls who had to be turned away after reaching counters within minutes of the final sale of the day.

But according to store and department managers, the casualties were mostly "mental" rather than physical. There were no reports of anyone having been crushed, stomped, gouged or elbowed. There were no smashed counters, broken commodities of other lines, or shattered windows. There were no torn dresses, ripped coats or denailed fingers.

INSTEAD, THE STORES reported, the crowds were orderly and co-operative.

At 7:30 a.m., two Royal Air Force corporals, one from Birmingham, Eng., and the other from Wales, took up positions outside the main doors of the T. Eaton Co. (Western) Ltd. They said they were going to send nylons to girl friends overseas. Near them was Hazel Johnson, of 12721 116 street, determined to make an appearance in the near future garbed in the soft sheen of nylon leggery. Behind her, the crowd stretched half-way round the block.

IT WAS A CHEERFUL MOB. Laughter rang through the air when

Large Crowds "Fight" For New Hosiery

The first sale of nylons in Edmonton since the war years on Tuesday brought out one of the largest crowds since V-J Day. Here are a few "shots" taken as Edmonton women participated in the hosiery sale. At the top, Miss Gertrude Potts, 18-year-old daughter of Mrs. E. Potts, 10021 87 avenue, and well known vocalist and Highland dancer, tries on the pair she purchased from the T. Eaton Co. (Western) Ltd. In the centre is just a bare fraction of the crowds which lined up outside the Eaton store shortly after 8 a.m. At the bottom Miss Daurel Mills, 17, of 8621 112 street, and one of the brightest stars of the coming Glenora Ice Show, purchases the first pair of nylons sold Tuesday by Mrs. E. W. Sallows at the Hudson's Bay Company store.

Waterfront Thefts At Halifax Bared

HALIFAX, Feb. 19.—(CP)—A huge waterfront theft ring stretching from the Halifax dockside into inland Canada and involving hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise has been uncovered by Royal Canadian Mounted Police, it was disclosed here today.

EXISTENCE OF THE BLACK MARKET organization, which specialized heavily and almost exclusively in expensive British textiles was revealed by intensive six-weeks investigation by RCMP officers in Halifax, Montreal, Toronto and intermediate centres, with the focal point of the probe in this city.

THE VALUE OF THE loot in textiles alone amounts to "several hundred thousand dollars", it was stated by Inspector D. A. MacKinnon, officer commanding the Halifax sub-division of the Mounted Police, who has been in charge of the investigation.

So far, no arrests have been made, police said, although the force has obtained evidence point-

1946 Program

NAR to Spend Over Million On Maintenance

Northern Alberta Railways, still coping with heavily-increased freight and passenger traffic as compared to the pre-war years, plans to spend approximately $1,500,000 during 1946 on capital construction and maintenance of its system, it was announced Tuesday by J. M. MacArthur, general manager.

THE PROGRAM for the present year, which entails about the same amount of expenditure as in 1945 and 1944, is actually a continuation of general improvement to right-of-way and facilities the railway has been carrying out each year, Mr. MacArthur pointed out. The program does not represent any startling new move in the direction of a building or construction pro-

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The arms from the body of a young girl, believed to be Suzanne Degnan, six, kidnapped, killed and dismembered Jan. 7, were found today in a manhole three blocks from the Degnan home.

Workmen were searching an underground electric service conduit for a power leakage when they made their find.

Veterans' 'Spiel

Two Unbeaten Rinks Capture Third Games

Two unbeaten rinks won their third straight games and two previously undefeated quartets ended their winning streaks in the Northern Alberta Veterans' Curling Association bonspiel this morning as the three-day 'spiel entered its second day of competition.

W. G. TOWNSLEY of Alberta Avenue and W. T. Coote of the Granite, listed among the six unbeaten at the end of the first day's play, came through on the 8:30 a.m. draw to win their third in a row.

Townsley handed H. W. Morgan of the Granite his first defeat by counting two on the last end to win 15-14, and Coote won his game by stopping M. C. Wilson of the Granite 9-8. In the Townsley—Morgan match, Townsley was ahead 13-6 early to have Morgan come back on the ninth with a six-ender and go ahead. Townsley then counted his two for a win.

City to Take Over Huts For Housing

The City of Edmonton is taking over 118 huts located on the United States Army Air Force camp for use as temporary emergency housing accommodation, it was announced Tuesday by Mayor Harry Ainlay.

HE SAID THAT it had been intimated that the RCAF would release the huts as soon as War Assets Corporation declared they could be taken over by the city. Mayor Ainlay said if no decision has been given by the corporation by Tuesday evening he would telephone Montreal seeking an immediate decision.

Mayor Ainlay said there was some work to be done on the huts such as erecting partitions, and some repair work. He said that two or more huts would be made available to applicants according to the size of the family. The fencing started by the University of Alberta authorities, would be completed, Mayor Ainlay stated.

THE HUTS ARE SERVICED by six latrines, each containing six lavatories, six showers, wash basins and urinals, and each latrine carries its individual hot water heating system.

Stoves now in the huts will be loaned to the city by RCAF authorities, Mayor Ainlay stated.

FBI Declared 'In the Thick of' Hunt for Spies

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. — (BUP)—Chairman John S. Wood, D., Ga., of the House Un-American Activities committee, said today that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is "in the thick of" the investigation of a spy ring originally revealed by the Canadian government.

Wood said his committee discussed the spy operations informally at a two-hour meeting today but took no action.

"I feel we should not interfere with the Canadian government's handling of the affair unless it asks for our co-operation, especially now that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is in the thick of it," Wood said.

Wood's disclosure came after a well-placed source said certain foreign powers using "unlimited funds," have made very great efforts to obtain atomic bomb secrets in this country.

Study Salaries Senior Officers In Civil Service

OTTAWA, Feb. 19—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie Kng today announced the appointment of a three-man royal commission "to examine into and make recommendations to the government upon the scales of salary, classifications, and conditions of employment of the senior administrative officers in the public service."

DURING THE LAST session of the commons criticism was heard from all sides of the House that inducements in the civil service were not on a high enough scale to attract and keep the best men possible.

The salary bracket for senior civil service runs from $5,000 to $10,000, a range considered much lower than that paid to men with similar responsibilities in commercial life.

MR. KING SAID today it was desirable the examination be con-

$500,000 Worth Said Involved

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—(CP)—Uranium, the treasured key to atomic power, came to the forefront of Canada's bizarre spy ring inquiry today with a Montreal report that Soviet agents had sought to buy $500,000 worth of the rare element from "black market" sources, but failed to get it out of the country.

THE REPORT was published today by the Montreal Gazette and tended to confirm persistent reports here that the atomic bomb data headed the list of information

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—(CP)—Professional spies, all believed to be Canadians, were employed by the foreign mission here which operated the alleged Russian spy ring now under scrutiny of a royal commission, The Canadian Press learned on good authority late today.

being sought by the spy ring, said by authoritative sources to be guided by Moscow.

The Montreal report lacked official confirmation here—as have many other reports arising in the wake of the inquiry—but it was recalled that a high source told The Canadian Press Sunday the ring was seeking "anything in which a spy would be interested."

THE STORY provided the first direct link between the spy ring inquiry and the government investigation into past transactions of Eldorado Gold Mines, Ltd., the uranium-mining company which was expropriated by the government two years ago to safeguard the source of the element.

The Eldorado Inquiry, being conducted by J. Grant Glassco, Toronto accountant, was launched nearly a year ago and one report said it resulted from information that some uranium had fallen into unauthorized hands. Reconstruction Minister

Charge South Firm On WPTB Violation

CALGARY, Feb. 19.—(CP)—General Distributors Ltd., Calgary wholesale firm, was charged in district court before Judge J. W. Macdonald yesterday with selling wrist watches to the post exchanges of the American army at "prices higher than reasonable and just", contrary to the regulations of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Harold Riley, Jr., who appeared for the prosecution, told the court that invoices in connection with watches showed a total value of $625,000 for all exchanges of which $530,000 was for the one exchange at the Edmonton-United States Army Air Base.

The company through their counsel, A. L. Smith, KC, MP, pleaded not guilty.

According to the charge, the transactions covered a period from May 2, 1944, to April 1, 1945. The charge, explained Mr. Riley to the court, was concerned wholly with watches.

The trial, in which more than 50 exhibits have already been filed, is expected to continue several days. Exhibits filed Monday included nearly 40 bundles of invoices and cancelled cheques covering various shipments of watches from the company to the Edmonton exchange.

Reserve Army Unit Will Get Training on Alaska Highway

If the newly-authorized 19th Armored Car Regiment (Edmonton Fusiliers) of the Canadian Reserve Army, ever has to defend the important Alaska Military Highway, members of the unit will know their job through and through.

THIS WAS DISCLOSED Tuesday in the announcement by Lt.-Col. John Proctor, OBE, designated commanding officer of the regiment, that training will be carried out each summer along the Alaska Highway, instead of at Sarcee Military camp where Reserve Army units have held summer camp training in previous years.

The 19th Armored Car Regiment (Edmonton Fusiliers), based in Edmonton is to have an active part in the defence of the Alaska Highway should the necessity ever arise", Lt.-Col. Proctor stated, following a preliminary organization meeting Monday night.

TOKYO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Premier Kijuro Shidehara predicted today it would take 20 or 30 years for Japan to rebuild, and added that swift restoration of foreign trade was essential for the crushed nation's livelihood.

The premier's remarks were made in an interview with Robert McLean, president of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin and of The Associated Press; Norman Chandler, president and publisher of the Los Angeles Times, and Benjamin McKelway, associate editor of the Washington Star.

Shidehara said restoration of business may be accomplished in two or three years.

Export of War Materials To Axis Nations Scored

Charges that the government of Canada had helped arm the Axis were made in the Legislature Tuesday afternoon by A. E. Fee (SC, Sedgewick), as he carried on the government's side in the debate on the Speech From the Throne. Mr. Fee was the second speaker in the debate on the address which was to be followed by D. E. Bell (SC, Gleichen), and R. D. Jorgenson (SC, Pembina).

THE EXPORTS of potential war materials to Japan were more than 37 million pounds of copper, 42 million pounds of aluminum, 20 million pounds of nickel and 26 million pounds of scrap iron in 1939, and millions of other pounds of similar raw materials were shipped to Italy and Germany prior to the war, he said as he quoted from a newspaper article reported on a return made in the House of Commons.

That this same type of export is

Canadian Troops Quit West Indies

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—(CP)—After a vital but colorless static defence role in the British West Indies, Canadian troops will be withdrawn this spring, defence headquarters announced today.

Last Canadian troops in the West Indies are the 1st Battalion, Brockville Rifles and two special infantry companies of the Pictou Highlanders.

The presence of Canadian troops kept at a strength of about 1,200 from 1943—ensured against the use of the area for U-boat and spy bases. And it also served as a sort of advance training base for Canadian troops who eventually saw action in Europe.

LITTLE PUBLICITY has been given the role Canada played in the defence of the West Indies—a role overshadowed by the more spectacular actions in the Mediterranean and northwest Europe.

Spy Probe

Howe, the minister responsible for safeguarding the precious element, said he knew nothing of uranium beaching undisclosed persons.

HOWEVER, HE TOLD the Commons last November while defending orders-in-council which gave Mr. Glassco unprecedented powers that radium and uranium were of "such a tremendous war potential it was believed necessary to know whether any of the material had gone astray."

Mr. Glassco, approached last night in Toronto for comment on the Montreal story, referred questioners to Ottawa. However, authorities here declined to discuss the report in the absence of Mr. Howe on the west coast.

THE NAME "pitchblende," for the rare ore in which uranium is found, became taboo in official Ottawa during the war. Knowledge of the big Canadian pitchblende deposit on Great Bear Lake, site of the Eldorado mine, was commonplace before the war, but following government approval for secrecy of the property mention of the deposits was on the "hush-hush" list.

Ranking officials even refused to discuss a report of a departmental survey last summer that a pitchblende deposit had been found near Lake Athabaska, in the northwest corner of Saskatchewan.

MEANWHILE, the official inquiry, headed by Mr. Justices Robert Taschereau and R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada, proceeded here in secrecy amid reports that new clues being produced by suspects were leading to the work of government counter-espionage squads.

The next concrete development was announced to be an interim progress report from the commissioners, which one authoritative source indicated would be made absolutely public in full.

THE INVESTIGATION put Canada on the front pages of newspapers around the world.

The Moscow radio, silent on the Canadian spy round-up until the first announcement last Friday, broke the news to the Russian people last night when it broadcast the text of Mr. King's first official statement regarding the leakage of state secrets to a foreign mission in Ottawa.

A dispatch from London quoted the Daily Herald as reporting it was understood a man had been detained near London in connection with the round-up and was being flown to Canada. This tended to confirm similar week-end reports here.

THE NUMBER of suspects being held at the RCMP training school at nearby Rockcliffe, centre of the investigation, still was an official secret, but an Associated Press report published in New York said one of those detained held a rank "very close" to that of deputy minister.

The Ottawa Morning Journal said today it had "learned" that among those picked up during last Friday morning's RCMP raids was "a young woman employed in the cipher branch of external affairs. The newspaper said police also took away a large sachel and box filled with papers and books after a search of her room. Among books left were Tolstoy's "War and Peace" and "A Russian-English dictionary".

PURCHASE PLOT SAID ABANDONED

MONTREAL, Feb. 19.—(CP)—The Montreal Gazette says today in a newspage story that it was learned here yesterday that "a Russian plot, the buying of more than $500,000 worth of virtually 'black market' uranium in Canada during about the successful culmination of the atomic bomb espionage conspiracy in Ottawa and other parts of the Dominion, has been uncovered."

THE PAPER ADDS: "Toronto was the headquarters of the Russian scheme to obtain the necessary activating force to complete the circle begun by agents who conspired, allegedly with Canadian civil service employees, to obtain secret and confidential information on atomic energy.

Cached or high-graded uranium ore is reported to be the basis of the transaction entered into by the Russians and other persons "alleged to have been officials and employees of Eldorado Gold Mines Ltd., in Toronto and Port Hope, Ont." Two Canadians are charged with defrauding the company of uranium and of more than $500,000. A third man, a New Yorker, is at large from justice in the case. Several other companies are reported connected with the alleged disappearance of the uranium.

"ALTHOUGH official sources are silent on the question, it appeared probable yesterday that the Russian agents seeking the atomic bomb ore failed to transport it out of the country," the Gazette says.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police of the Montreal division yesterday were busy sorting the material seized in a Saturday night and Sunday morning, and it appeared probable that the material would be forwarded to Ottawa as soon as its relevancy to matters being investigated is established.

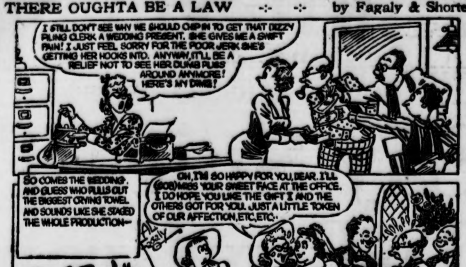

ATTLEE INFORMED BY PREMIER KING

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(CP)—Prime Minister MacKenzie King has been in communication with Prime Minister Attlee regarding the leakage of secret information in Ottawa but the British government leader does not intend to make a statement on the matter, he told the House of Commons today.

MR. ATTLEE answered "yes" when Anthony Eden, leader of the Conservative opposition, asked if the Canadian prime minister had been in touch with him on the matter. However, to a question asking if he had any statement to make, he replied: "As the matter is in the hands of the Canadian government and is sub judice, I do not think it proper to say any more about it."

That was his only comment on the matter, he told the Commons and he gave no answer to William Gallacher when the veteran Communist member asked if in view of the current "sensationalism" about spies, the British prime minister would publish the amount of money spent by Britain in international spying.

Score Injured

Undetermined Number Die In Apartment Blast, Fire

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A terrific explosion, followed by fire, levelled a three-storey apartment building in the downtown residential area here today, killing an undetermined number of persons and injuring a score of others.

FIRE CHIEF Frank Rivard and police estimated that a score or more of persons, all negroes, lost their lives in the blast or fire, while a score of others were injured.

They said the building housed 53 residents. The blast occurred while the occupants were getting breakfast or preparing to go to work.

Army and Navy ambulances were called into service to augment city ambulances in rescue work. Servicemen from the port of embarkation and the navy also aided police and firemen.

THE CAUSE of the explosion was undetermined but Fire Chief Rivard said it possibly resulted from an accumulation of gas.

One person who escaped said "we smelled gas in the house and somebody struck a match." Another witness said the explosion made a thunderous noise and then the building sank into flames.

The explosion was heard for miles and attracted thousands of spectators. Windows were shattered and furnishings were upset in houses over a considerable area.

THE INTERIOR of the structure was a mass of flame when firemen arrived and Fire Chief Frank Rivard would not permit firemen to enter the wreck. The first floor gave way and the second and third floors collapsed.

Every available ambulance in the city was rushed to the scene to carry on rescue work.

Out-of-Work Grant Scheme Is Extended

OTTAWA, Feb. 19—(CP)—To meet "unprecedented congestion" of training facilities for veterans, Veterans Minister MacKenzie announced yesterday that out-of-work allowances will be paid to those interested in getting vocational university education because of a lack of facilities.

The allowances will not reduce their period of training assistance.

A new order-in-council says any veteran approved for vocational or university training in Canada shall be entitled to receive an allowance for himself and dependents equivalent to the out-of-work allowance. The allowance amounts to $50 monthly for a single veteran, with corresponding increases for dependents. A married man with two children receives $94 monthly.

Spy Announcement On Russian Radio With No Comment

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(CP)—The Moscow radio broadcast last night the text of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's Friday statement regarding the leakage of secret information in Ottawa.

The broadcast made no comment on the statement.

Mr. King's statement, issued last Friday, did not name the country involved in the leakage of information.

It said, "There have been disclosures of secret and confidential information to unauthorized persons, including some members of the staff of a foreign mission in Ottawa."

Spy Scare Given Wide Prominence In States Papers

NEW YORK, Feb. 19. — (CP) — The case of the Ottawa spy scare commanded front-page attention in United States newspapers again today with the reportorial treatment strongly suggestive of the sub-title "Red Russia Rides Again."

Little that was new—other than speculation that ranged the gamut from alleged Russian attempts to gain secrets of the atom bomb to prying into Canada's entire defence set-up—came from Ottawa, but that did not hinder some parts of the American press in a continued campaign directed at Russia. The United States government was criticized for allegedly doing nothing to prevent spying by foreign powers.

A. C. Stewart, counsel for Manasterski, said he had been informed of the commutation from the office of the secretary of state at Ottawa. Manasterski was convicted of murder following trial in King's Bench court at Melville last November.

a truck from the city telephone system several days past, one man in the back hitching up trouser legs to expose heavy wool socks.

The safe was held on the main floor. At 10:30 a.m., the reinforced counters were still packed with more people than there are ladders in a pre-war stocking. Canadian and American servicemen were prominent in the crowds.

At the Walk-Rite Style Shoppe Ltd., the sale lasted 45 minutes. At the end of that time, the counters were bare and the queue was nearly the lower floor hosiery counters. If store discipline was strict, it was also popular. One woman was overheard remarking "that's the way to sell stockings!"

IT WAS ANOTHER QUICK sale at the C. Woodward Ltd. store. The selling was on a "first come first served" basis, but there was consolation for less fortunate would-be purchasers. When nylons were exhausted, a "nice quality" rayon hose was put on the selling block at $1.25 per pair. "Lots of girls were disappointed," said one official. "We told 'em there'd be lots more next month."

One of the largest crowds of shoppers congregated at the Hudson's Bay Company store. The sale was held in the Empire room on the second floor where heavy, two-by-four booths and stalls were erected to guide the lineups into various stocking-size sections. A staff of 18 girls were on hand to conduct the sales, formed up in six teams of three each.

The Hudson's Bay Second-hand Dorothy Mills, 8621 112 street, was the first purchaser of nylons. Daughter of Mrs. Mills, the Bonnie skating star said these would be her first nylon hose. Her face was lighted up with smiles a bare hour before $1.95 purchase triumphantly from the counter.

PROPRIETOR OF THE purchasers was Miss Gretie Hoffstetter of 12138 86 street, ready bright and early to pick up the first pair of nylon that she's ever owned. Behind her was an ex-sailor type, two buck-notes clutched in his hand. In his name lineup was Gerry Barl, out-patient currently of the Colonel Mewburn Pavilion.

Another man in the lineup, a rugged, outdoor dweller to judge by his appearance, refused to give reporters his name. "Would you?" he asked with a grin. The nylon stampede presented generally a curious study in human psychology. Few of the men wanted it known that they were buying hose. Most of the women were anxious to let the world know how they'd braved the crowds to get a pair of the precious hose.

THE ARMY AND NAVY Department Store Ltd., dodged the worst of the rush. The management issued certificates to all regular customers and the lineup was restricted to these lucky people.

Coincident with the sale was an announcement from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board regarding stocks available for nylon hosiery. Gauge 45 and 48 sold as follows: Special quality, $1.95; first quality, $1.75; sub-standards, irregulars and seconds, $1.30; thirds, .85. There were few "thirds" on sale in Edmonton Tuesday.

WHEN THE RUSH was all over, newsmen dropped into a coffee shop to try and forget. It was impossible. There witnesses, reviewing their morning's activities, had counters literally covered with nylon stockings.

Lawrence, the Chinese proprietor, looked the situation over, rubbed his hands together and moaned: "Butter shortages I got, sugar shortages I got, even meat shortages sometimes I got. Now look at the nylonstocking shortage!"

A waitress straightened a shapely nylon stocking.

New Manning Depot For Interim Force

WINNIPEG, Feb. 18. — (CP) — Headquarters of No. 2 Air Command, RCAF, yesterday announced a manning depot would be established at Portage la Prairie, to care for recruits for both the interim and permanent force. It will be commanded by Group Capt. W. G. Webster of Ottawa.

Nazis Turned Over To Yugoslav Govt.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(Reuters)—Belgrade radio said Allied military authorities in Germany yesterday handed over a group of suspected war criminals to Yugoslav officials. Among the suspects were SS Gen. August Meyszner, former Gestapo chief in Yugoslavia, and Dr. Vladimir Koset, the Croatian Quisling government minister in Belgrade.

U.S. Telephone Operators End Short Strike

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A strike of long-distance telephone operators in Philadelphia was settled today, removing the threat of an immediate country-wide sympathy telephone tieup. It was the possibility of a country-wide walkout for higher wages still was in the cards.

Peter J. Manno, federal conciliator, said at Philadelphia the American Telephone and Telegraph company and representatives of the Independent Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers had reached an agreement on the issue of promotions and that 1,000 striking operators would return to work.

AT A MEETING in Boston, where representatives of the National Federation of Telephone Workers are in conference, John J. Moran, president of the Federation of Long Lines Operators, announced earlier he would call a sympathetic work stoppage of long-distance operators if the Philadelphia strike was not settled within 24 hours.

However, Joseph A. Beirne, Federation president, said a majority of the 50 independent unions in his group favored a strike only if its claimed 250,000 members in support of wage demands. This issue remained independent of the Philadelphia strike.

THE TROUBLES in the telephone industry came as the country's "great coal strike" moved into its second week long walkout of 750,000 CIO steelworkers—was drawing to a close. More than half of the strikers had been ordered back to their jobs as companies accepted the agreement with the CIOUSW to increase wages 18½ cents an hour. However, the return to work was expected to be gradual with normal steelmaking operations not expected until next month.

The walkout of operators in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Erie was quite between the Local 203, Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company over the promotion of three employees.

THE STEEL WORKERS' return to work cut the total idle because of labor disputes to approximately 1,050,000, the lowest total in a month.

Elsewhere along the labor front, new wage increase negotiations were made, 18 cents hourly for 450,000 shipyard workers and 30,000 CIO maintenance workers on strike nearly a month at 10 International Harvester Company plants.

The shipbuilding stabilization conference said government and labor representatives had approved the wage boost, which would be retroactive to Dec. 4, but management had opposed it. The proposal will be submitted to the national wage stabilization board for approval.

THE PROPOSED WAGE hike for the strikers in the Harvester plants came nearly a month after their walkout Jan. 21 from plants in Illinois, Indiana and New York. The settlement proposed a flat 10-per-cent increase, retroactive to Oct. 1, 1945 and the 18 cent raise effective when the strikers return to work. The board also recommended a maintenance of union membership provision and check-off of union initiation fees, dues and assessments.

In the 91-day old strike of 175,000 CIO workers at General Motors plants, there was nothing in sight to indicate a settlement of the wage and security issues was imminent. The same was true at Lancaster, Pa., in the two weeks old wage strike of 220 American Federation of Labor bus and trolley workers of the Conestoga Transportation Company.

Abandoned Child's Parents Are Named

RED DEER, Feb. 19.—(CP)—The five-year-old boy who has been lost and nameless in the Red Deer training school since last Feb. 2 was identified yesterday as John Newhouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin M. Newhouse, who formerly lived in Turner Valley and High River.

The RCMP at Edmonton announced Monday that the parents had been found living below Okanagan Lake, near the U.S. border.

Dr. D. L. McCullough, medical superintendent of the children's mental home at Red Deer, said the boy was still at the home and had spent the week-end playing with the other youngsters.

IT IS REPORTED Glen Newhouse was born at Revelstoke on July 26, 1940.

The boy was put into the care of the provincial mental home near Red Deer when he was found in the 25 degrees below zero weather.

The boy when found was warmly dressed and in one of his rubbers was a note written on a cigarette carton which instructed the finder to place the boy in the Alberta children's training school.

Newsman States Senior Official Is Held in Probe

NEW YORK, Feb. 19—(CP)—The Associated Press last night carried an Ottawa dispatch saying it had been learned that one man was arrested in the Canadian government's investigation into the leakage of confidential information held a rank "very close" to that of deputy minister. Under the byline of Harry T. Montgomery, the story added: "As the Royal Canadian Mounted Police continued to arrest suspects and detain witnesses, it was learned that none of the suspects held deputy minister rank, the highest rank for civil servant in the Dominion, although one was about as high-placed."

War Crime Trials

Details of Hun Killings In Russia Given Court

By NOLAND NORGAARD

NUERNBERG, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Russian Prosecutor Col. L. N. Smirnov described to the International Military Tribunal today the frantic haste with which retreating Nazis are charged with having slaughtered countless thousands of Russian civilians and prisoners-of-war in 1943.

THE WITH DRAWING Nazis sometimes forced their victims to carry wood to a cremation pyre, lie down upon it and then be shot, Col. Smirnov said. Immediately, another group of victims were forced to place wood upon the corpses and repeat the process and finally, the whole pyre was soaked with gasoline and lighted, he said.

In their haste to close mass graves of persons shot during the various phases of the extermination campaign, the Nazis frequently buried or burned their victims alive, the prosecutor said.

THE TRIBUNAL earlier denied defence motions for a three-week adjournment of the trial upon completion of the prosecution case.

Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, president of the tribunal, said the members felt sufficient time already was available for preparation of the defence and explained that defence counsel would be able to absent themselves from the courtroom much of the time during the remainder of the prosecution case, if they desired.

SIR GEOFFREY SAID the tribunal would hear arguments on questions involving the right of organizations indicted as criminal groups as soon as the Russian prosecutors complete their case probably at the end of this week or early next week.

At the conclusion of these arguments, the court will hear rulings on defence applications for summoning witnesses and producing documents required for the defence case.

SIR GEOFFREY SAID these matters would require several days and suggested that most defence lawyers would be able to use this time in preparation.

Fee Speech

likely to continue in the future was envisioned by the member as he quoted a plank from the Liberal platform of 1945 which urged an increase in export trade.

"WE ARE TOLD in Holy Writ" he continued. "'He that soweth the whirlwind shall reap the storm.' Well we planted two crops and raised two twisters and now the Liberal party wishes to reap the whirlwind. The next one should blow the lid off".

There are two camps in the world today he said, one includes Communism, Fascism, Socialism and other "isms" and rules by force. The other is the school of democracy, which is interpreted as rule by the people. In times of war for the sake of efficiency, democracy sometimes adopt the method of rule by order-in-council, a method they are loathe to relinquish, he said. He criticized the present government reluctance to kill Bill No. 15.

"BOTH THESE SCHOOLS assume that humans are an indolent lot and will not work unless compelled to do so by force or necessity," he said.

"In fact," he continued, "democracy treats the public as a beekeeper treats his bees. The beekeeper takes the returns of the labor of the bees by the method of extraction."

Every time a patriotic citizen bought a bond he added to the public debt, and every time he sold one he had to assume the burden of interest charges on the bond he himself brought into being, he claimed.

WHEN WE ARE TOLD that half the cost of the war was paid from taxation and the other half from loans, it means that some of us owe the rest of us half the cost of the war, or about $2,000 per head, and he intimated that when the roll is called and the books balanced it will be found that few of the workers, and fewer of the fighting men, would be on the credit side of the ledger.

The government at Ottawa fails to see that excessive taxation, which they claim is enforced partially to restrict the amount of spending money available is actually holding up production, he charged.

Farmers are not producing hogs nor butter or other supplementary foods when produced because the amount by which he increases his income is again deducted by the payment of high income taxes.

"CANADA SENT a delegation to the world conference in San Francisco and it has been said that they went to a basket of food and they went totally unarmed," he charged.

This country is different from that, the member said, as he compared it with a huge banquet hall with seating capacity for a hundred million people and just sufficient population to act as waiters.

"Our house is too big for our family," he said, "We have the skeleton of a great nation, the British have the guts, why not invite them to a banquet and ask them to wash the dishes?"

Untold millions are coming to this country he said without invitation, so that now is the time to put our house in order for the welcome and invited guests.

Cabinet to Meet

OTTAWA, Feb. 19. — (CP) — A routine meeting of the cabinet was to be held today, but while developments in the current spy probe likely would be mentioned, it was understood other matters dominated the agenda.

Reserve Army

has heartily approved of Alaska Highway training period, Col. Proctor said:

"It is appreciated that any attack coming from the north would be a heavy air bombardment, followed by air-borne landings to seize vital points. The role of the new regiment will be to hold vital crossings on the Alaska Highway and to fight delaying actions while forces are being mobilized.

"GENERAL WORTHINGTON has given his assurance that his intention is to have one squadron of armoured cars with the necessary transport for training purposes made available to the regiment. The remainder of the equipment will be held in tactical reserve in the city. It is expected that the first armored cars should arrive in Edmonton about April 1".

Exercise will be carried out by the regiment from Edmonton to the Alberta border and areas will be made available along the highway for field firing and the actual use of regimental weapons and equipment.

A MAXIMUM OF 45 days may be served annually, which consists of two weeks' camp training plus training parades, with wireless and vehicle maintenance stressed at drill nights.

It is hoped that legislation, now before the federal house, will be passed, authorizing employers to grant two weeks time off each year for training, which is not to count against employees' regular holiday time.

IT IS PLANNED to have headquarters and three fighting squadrons of the armored regiment stationed in Edmonton with a fourth fighting squadron at Wetaskiwin.

IT HAS ALREADY been announced that T. B. "Darby" Nash, who won the DSO for gallantry in the battle to close the Falaise Gap, will be second-in-command, with the rank of major.

It was Maj. Nash and Maj. David Currie, VC, officers in the South Alberta (Armored) Regiment, who are credited with directing the operation that closed the Falaise Gap. Maj. Currie was awarded the Victoria Cross for his gallantry during the action.

Lt.-Col. Proctor has also reverted one rank to take command of the regiment, having been a full colonel when he returned from active service overseas.

OTHER OFFICERS appointed are:

Maj. G. B. Stott, Maj. R. H. Allsopp, all officers with long records of service overseas in the Second World War.

A number of former non-commissioned officers have approached Lt.-Col. Proctor with requests to join the regiment.

The unit is to have a small permanent staff of active forces officers and NCOs, yet to be named.

THE LOYAL EDMONTON Regiment, an infantry unit, has been selected as another unit of the Canadian Reserve Army in Western Army Command.

The Second Battalion, Edmonton Fusiliers, which has played an active part in the training of reserve personnel throughout the war, will be vacating its headquarters in the Victoria Armories for the use of new regiment, and, together with the 19th Alberta Dragoons, who were disbanded in 1942, amalgamate, to form the new unit of the Canadian Reserve Army. Arrangements are being made to take over hangars or garage space vacated by the Americans for the accommodation of the regiment's "Stag Hounds", and other fighting vehicles.

A REGIMENTAL FUND will be made available for training purposes and no pay will be deducted to build up this fund.

In co-operation with the 19th Armored Car Regiment (Edmonton Fusiliers) will be a Light Aid Detachment of a RCEME Workshop, and an Armored Signal Section from the Royal Canadian Corps of

Forecast Major Pronouncement By Pope Pius

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 18.—(AP) —Pope Pius may make a major pronouncement on the position of the Roman Catholic Church in the present world situation when 30 of 32 newly-created cardinals gather tomorrow to receive their first insignia of office from the pontiff.

THE FORECAST OF A major papal pronouncement was made tonight as congratulations poured in from many parts of the world. The new cardinals, including one Canadian, were made princes of the church at a precedent-setting consistory yesterday.

The pontiff's address will be delivered after he places birettas on the heads of the new cardinals present at the Vatican. The colorful ceremony will be held in the Hall of Benedictions over the Portico of St. Peter's Basilica.

WITH THE ARRIVAL today of Joseph Mindszenty, Hungarian primate, 30 of the 32 new cardinals were present in Vatican City for the traditional ceremonies marking their elevation.

Johannes Cardinal de Jong of Utrecht, Holland, and Gabriel-Geraud Cardinal Sallaton of Toulouse, France, were unable to journey here for the ceremonies because of illness.

Failure of Russian authorities in Budapest to grant Cardinal Mindszenty clearance to leave the city prevented him from being present at the consistory.

It is expected he will receive his Biglietto notifying him of his election to the College of Cardinals at the Hungarian Academy this afternoon.

TWO OF THE NEW cardinals are ill. Agustin Cardinal Parrado Y Garcia of Granada, Spain, kept to his room at the Spanish College because of fatigue. Jose Cardinal Garibi Rodriguez of Santiago, Chile, was taken to hospital yesterday with what the doctors first said was bronchial pneumonia but later diagnosed as grippe.

The two British Empire Cardinals—James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, Bernard Cardinal Griffin, Archbishop of Sydney, Australia—received diplomats of many countries.

The new cardinals this morning resumed a series of ad coloram visita.

Vienna Battered By Terrific Wind

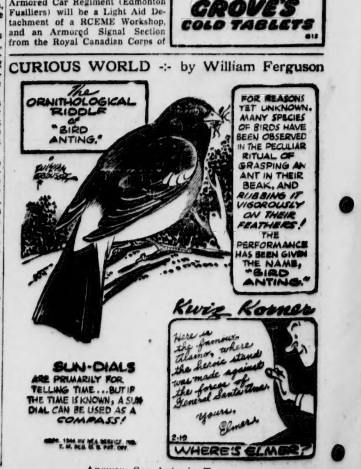

VIENNA, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A 90-mile wind ripped war-wracked Vienna last night, knocking down weakened buildings, tearing out trees and killing at least four persons. About 200 were injured. The fire department said it was the worst times for reacue work and other operations.

Signals . . . a Light Field Ambulance and, it is hoped, a battery of self-propelled field artillery guns have been received of the usual close co-operation with Infantry and the RCAF.

OFFICERS QUALIFIED will be received at anytime the orderly room of the Edmonton Fusiliers in the Victoria Armories. Lt.-Col. H. E. Pearson, MC, retiring commanding officer has invited Col. Proctor and Lt.-Col. Nash to attend tonight's parade, when all ranks of the officers and men of the Edmonton Fusiliers carry-on, as they can greatly assist in the early build-up period of the new regiment.

Grief-Stricken Husband Flies To Claim Body

REGINA, Feb. 19.—(CP)—Grief-stricken but thinking only about reaching his year-old son, William Miller, 36-year-old former private in the Canadian Army left last night by air on the first leg of a flight to Canterbury, England, where his 21-year-old English war bride was found strangled to death Saturday.

WITH THE AID of Red Cross and military officials, priority was obtained for the flight for the ex-soldier who married the former Lillian Kent of Canterbury in 1942 and who had been preparing for the arrival of his wife and year-old son, David Victor, at the home he had made for them at Wapella, 130 miles east of here.

Mrs. Miller and her son were to have sailed for Canada on the next available ship when her body was found near the site of a soldier's camp at Canterbury.

"SURELY MY WIFE could have been sent to Canada months ago," the young soldier said in an interview before boarding his plane. "When I left England in March, 1945, I was told my wife and child would be with me in six weeks. The weeks stretched on. I communicated with every organization having to do with repatriation and not until ten days ago did I get anything definite—that my wife and baby were to be with me within a month."

He said he had offered to send the money to have Mrs. Miller and baby brought to Canada by air but was told infants could not be transported by air.

HE TOLD OF THE "pretty little home" he had bought and furnished at Wapella in anticipation of the arrival of his English bride.

"It had a fine little garden, Lillian was very fond of flowers."

And there was to have been a big welcome by the whole Miller family at the homecoming until the tragedy of his wife's death erased all thought of it from their minds.

NO ARRESTS YET IN WOMAN'S DEATH

CANTERBURY, Kent, England, Feb. 19.—(CP)—After identification parades lasting more than five hours at military barracks here, police said last night they still were unable to make any arrests in connection with the murder of Mrs. Lilian Miller, wife of a Canadian soldier, found dead near here Sunday.

WOMEN FRIENDS of Mrs. Miller picked out a Danish soldier as the man with whom they thought they had seen Mrs. Miller dancing the night before her death. This man was interviewed by the police but was not detained.

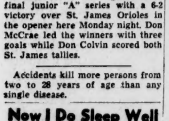

Medical authorities said the woman, 21-year-old mother of a year-old boy, was asphyxiated.

Modern Community for Atomic Research Workers Deep River, Ont., Owned by Dominion Government

Deep River's new school-house is modern and well-equipped. The high and large windows provide adequate light and there are specially-designed lamps above the blackboard. The staff of five includes the principal. This school can accommodate 180 pupils, has now an enrolment of 80.

One of the streets at Deep River, the townsite owned by the government and built for the workers of Chalk River atomic development plant. When construction is completed the town will house 1,500 people in modern homes and will provide them with a shopping centre and community hall.

Atomic Village Comes Into Being Near Ottawa

By JACK WILLIAMS

DEEP RIVER, Ont., Feb. 19. — (CP) — Canada's most modern village is sprouting into being on this Upper Ottawa river aite 125 miles west of Ottawa, with appropriate scientific speed — it is the eventual home of 295 families intimately connected with atomic development.

THERE IS A SHARP contrast between the government-owned village of Deep River and the sweeping implications of the atomic bomb and atomic energy development centred 12 miles distant at the Chalk River plant. A year ago this townsite was an uninhabited section of the river shoreline.

Gracefully winding streets wend their way through wooded lots that will be left standing. The staff hotel has accommodation for more than 200.

IN THESE SURROUNDINGS the men most intimately connected with Canada's atomic development at the Chalk River plant will live. Many of them are already here and the village population today is numbered at 1,200, by September it is expected to reach 1,500.

A few miles down the river is the atomic plant and special buses operate between the townsite and the carefully guarded laboratories and plant.

THE VILLAGE TAKING form in this once wilderness, 125 miles west of Ottawa, is almost completely self-contained and may form a pattern for Canadian communities of the future.

There is the school, a six-room building which is probably the most modern of its type in the country.

The administration offices house a complete automatic telephone exchange. The village has its own fire department.

When construction is completed the village will have 461 housing units—207 of them wartime houses, 14 single dwellings, 56 two-unit houses and 32 four-unit apartment houses.

THE LARGEST HOUSES rent for from $45 to $65 a month, wartime houses are $30 and four-room apartments may be had at $24.

The village hospital, which will be a complete unit, is under construction and plans are being drafted for a community centre. In the community hall will be a large auditorium, a small auditorium suitable for church services, a library-lounge room and six bowling alleys.

COMPLETELY OWNED by the government, the village is under the management of Defence Industries Ltd., which also takes care of maintenance and operation of the Chalk River plant, except aspects which are handled by personnel of the National Research Council who, with the DIL employees, will form the bulk of Deep River's population.

Black Market

ing to the involvement of a considerable number of persons in the ring, whose booty was obtained from cargoes landed in Halifax by ship.

BUSINESS FIRMS in Halifax and Montreal are among those known to be implicated, the RCMP said, but the identities of the firms involved are being withheld for the time being.

So far-reaching has been the extent of the ring's activities that the RCMP, despite weeks of inquiries, have not yet been able to calculate fully the total amount of the stolen goods, which disappeared from the waterfront here over a period of years.

However, it is known that at one period of the ring's operations a few wears ago, its depredations had become so serious that firms engaged in the shipment of the goods in question seriously considered shutting off the shipments altogether because of the heavy losses they were suffering.

AS THE RESULT of the RCMP investigation, the losses now have trickled away to a minimum.

A considerable portion of the stolen goods, it had been established, was disposed on the black market in Halifax.

The goods disappeared, as a rule, after being unloaded from ships and before they passed through the customs. It was primarily because the federal government was being defrauded of customs revenue that RCMP were called into the case, since cases of ordinary theft within this city do not ordinarily come into their jurisdiction.

MOST OF THE STOLEN materials, the RCMP learned, were spirited away from the dockside by night, apparently with the help of men posing as stevedores. Loaded aboard trucks, they would be shipped by freight to Montreal or disposed of in the city.

In Montreal, according to information in the hands of the investigators, some of the loot was disposed of direct to large firms in the clothing trade, who made it up into the manufactured product.

gram for the present year, he stated.

Principal items on the 1946 program are replacement of approximately 50 miles of present steel rails with heavier steel, providing the steel in available, ballasting on several portions of the line including several miles on the Waterways subdivision, extensive ditching to improve drainage of the roadbed, placing of steel tie plates, rail anchors and heavier switches, purchase of track and roadway equipment, shop machinery and enlargement of station buildings and loading facilities at several points, weed destruction and building up at rail joints.

THE SECTION on which the heavier steel will be laid is the Grande Prairie subdivision between Grande Prairie and Ryerolt.

The lines are now laid with heavy steel from Edmonton to a point west of McLennan.

Station buildings being enlarged are at Grimshaw and Bezanilla. The Grimshaw addition is made necessary largely because of the heavy traffic in freight for operations in the Yellowknife mining area.

LOADING PLATFORMS and improvements are planned for several other points.

The steel taken up for replacement with heavier rails, will be passed down for sidings and other purposes.

In addition there will be the usual seasonal replacement of track ties, involving replacement of approximately 300,000, of which about 10 per cent will be creosote-treated.

The usual painting and repair of buildings and bridges will also be carried out, Mr. MacArthur stated.

The program will get underway as soon as weather conditions permit in the spring, he added.

Spy Chase Makes Russians 'Unhappy'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(CP)—Soviet embassy attaches were reported yesterday to be extremely unhappy over the situation created by reports from Ottawa that investigation into alleged leakages of secret information through present and former government employees involved the Russian embassy in Canada.

There was no denial that Russian agents in Canada, and in the United States, might be seeking information on matters which the Canadian and American governments are reluctant to make generally known, even to their war allies.

The point was made by Soviet officials that Russian desire to obtain information on atomic and other scientific developments was as natural as the obvious desire of Canada, the United States and United Kingdom to keep such information secret.

BUT IT WAS STRESSED that activities in that direction were not necessarily official but arose from the enthusiasm of technical experts and army officers attached to Russian missions abroad to compare their own information on these matters with that held by the countries in which they operated.

The Soviet informant was reported to have explained that Russian embassies have a sort of dual setup with career diplomats on the one hand executing the policies and assignments laid down by the foreign office in Moscow, and party representatives who operate on a different level and with responsibility to the party rather than to the foreign office.

Leader of LPP Says Officials Not Arrested

TORONTO, Feb. 19.—(CP)—Tim Buck, national leader of the Labor-Progressive party, denied last night newspaper reports that officials of his party had been arrested in a federal government drive against agents of a foreign power seeking secrets of state.

"IT IS NOT TRUE," said Mr. Buck. "I have not yet been able to get information that any member of our party has been arrested."

(At Ottawa it was reported that government agents have begun to back-check on known adherents to the former communist party and a dispatch from a Montreal daily newspaper said an official of the Labor-Progressive party, successor to the communist group, had been detained with five other persons in Montreal.)

"It's quite obvious," said Mr. Buck, "that our government has to act if it receives information of undoubted authenticity, as our prime minister (Prime Minister Mackenzie King) stated.

"IT MUST BE SAID, however, that the manner in which this case was presented to the public suggests very strongly that the arrest of the men charged with having communicated confidential information to a foreign power is being made secondary to a campaign of hostile propaganda directed at the Soviet Union.

"The only logical conclusion the average person can draw is that Canada isn't particularly anxious about co-operating with the Soviet Union. There is plenty to suggest that desire to create hostility to the Soviet is the dominant consideration. . . .

"It's because of the artificial atmosphere of deliberate secrecy that the press is able to create the impression that in some way the Soviet Union has been engaged in a dangerous conspiracy against Canada. Just how far they can misrepresent the true facts in this situation is illustrated by the fact they have cultivated an impression that the Communist movement is somehow implicated in the case. Some papers have even asserted falsely that officials of the Labor-Progressive party have been arrested."

Hospital Bus Service

Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion is in a sound position in urging that a special Sunday bus service to the University Hospital be established between the hours of 1:30 and 9:30 p.m.

While the concern of the Legion is chiefly with patients and visitors in and to the Colonel Mewburn Pavilion, the general convenience of the whole hospital must be considered as well. And since Sunday is the chief visiting day for both civilian and military patients, it seems absurd that this should be the one day in the week that a bus service is not provided.

Some of the servicemen patients are in a condition to leave the Pavilion for a few hours at a time and it is highly inconvenient and even dangerous for many of these to have to negotiate slippery and icy streets to the car lines particularly during those months when bad footing can be expected.

The institution of a Sunday bus service to both the Mewburn and civilian entrances of the hospital is a step that would be applauded by thousands of Edmonton citizens.

Who Will Weed the Beets?

Canadians generally may be glad to see the German prisoners-of-war head back for Britain and eventually Germany, and hope that the Japanese also will soon be on their way home. But the growers of sugar beets in southern Alberta can't be expected to be enthusiastic over the two-way exodus.

For the beet-growers do not see how they are to raise crops next summer without the help of the Afrika Korps men and the Japs. These have been doing the planting and weeding and other field work for several years. And, however objectionable on other grounds they were generally acceptable for their help Alberta has been producing more beet sugar than all the other provinces put together.

The crux of the situation is that the men who tended to the beet crops in pre-war years drifted away to better paying jobs in wartime and are not available now. That leaves the growers facing a rather bleak outlook, unless they can induce men who have been used to other occupations to take work in the beet fields. Since this is only seasonal employment, the difficulty of recruiting labor is apparent.

This worry of the beet-growers is not exclusively their affair. The consumer is quite likely to come into the picture, as a consumer or as a taxpayer. Sugar is rationed, and there is no promise that the allowances will be increased. A big cut in crop in Alberta would not greatly affect the supply position. But if the beet-growers have to bid up wages in order to get men they may need more money for their beets. Which indicates a demand for a higher price for sugar or a subsidy for growing beets.

Research and Industry

J. Lorne Gray, associate director-general of the research division of the department of reconstruction, has stated in Edmonton that his department is endeavoring to make an arrangement whereby scientific findings developed throughout the country may be placed at the disposal of Canadian industry.

In apparent opposition to this plan is the statement, also in Edmonton, of Dr. F. Cyril James, principal of McGill University, that any attempt to control or direct scientific research work at universities would be unfortunate.

The great bulk of Canadian public opinion will be behind the plan of the department of reconstruction and opposed to the objections raised by Dr. James.

One of the factors that stultified the work of the National Research Council, before the practical needs of war wakened it up, was the refusal of some of its members to consider a practical and industrial application of academic research work. Indeed, a definite proposal to organize the science departments of Canadian universities into industrial laboratories, on a part time basis, for the benefit of industry was peremptorily rejected by one of the Council's chief members as far back as 1928 on the plea that the practical application of research was not the business of academic institutions.

The organization of this viewpoint is one of the reasons why the science departments of many Canadian universities have been completely devitalized and why so many young Canadian scientists have been enticed to the United States, where industrial research offers bright financial opportunities.

Canadian industry falls behind American industry because the latter has the funds to privately finance industrial research on a large scale. Under this handicap, it is not only industry that loses but national production as a whole. And since production is the only source of national wealth, this unequal competition becomes a national calamity.

Apparently the plan of the department of reconstruction is to ask the science departments of Canadian universities to develop their research along a co-ordinated pattern that will benefit national production. Such a plan need not prejudice to any degree the specialized research that is peculiar to each university. On the other hand, it would confer an immense benefit upon Canadian industry and so step up Canadian production as a whole.

The plan seems perfectly sound and, indeed, long overdue.

It would be a pity if the super-academic views of a few professional educators should be permitted to interfere with it. Science was not created as the vehicle of fancy degrees, but for the benefit of humanity.

International Snooping

The furore at Ottawa started when it was discovered that agents of some foreign power, not officially named, had wheedled or bribed some civil servants into giving out information which they were paid and pledged to keep secret. The particulars will appear in due course. Until then judgment should be suspended, rumors ignored, and no person's good name smeared with suspicion.

Incidents of this kind are new in Canada, but they are not new in the world. They have happened in many countries and have been cropping up here or there for ages. They occur because it is the custom of governments in general to maintain official snoopers in neighbor states. Sometimes these strut in the gilded uniforms of high dignitaries who enjoy and abuse the courtesy of the country to which they are accredited; sometimes they are nominally engaged in legitimate business, with no known official standing or connections. Usually both types are included in the set-up when really important information is wanted.

This isn't a very high type of international politics. But it is customary. Because it is customary no country can ignore the practice without taking risks. Fate having thrust Canada into the international position it now occupies, the Dominion will almost certainly build up an espionage system of its own, if for no other purpose than to find out how much other countries find out that they shouldn't know.

Whether we like it or not, Canada cannot be a hermit nation in future. Most Canadians would like nothing better than to offer other countries should mind their own business and let us mind ours. But they won't. The uproar at Ottawa is the signal that foreign snoopers are already nosing into our affairs. A competent corps of lynx-eyed observers abroad will therefore be a necessary part of our defence system.

Army experts at Washington say there have been "multiple leaks" of atomic bomb secrets there. That is hardly surprising, since information on less important subjects has been sought and obtained at Ottawa. When under-cover operations are no longer needed to identify the persons involved and to collect vital evidence, the fullest publicity should be given to these occurrences at both capitals. The public have a right to know who did the buying and selling, or the entertaining and the tattling, as the case may be. Complete exposure will make for future security.

The Canadian Crisis—

The Forgotten Taxpayer

As Dominion-Provincial "Agreement" Takes Form It Becomes Clear That Ottawa Has Come Under the Influence of the Stronger Canadian Provinces Wherein Taxpayers Have Little Hope of Relief From Wartime Levels

By Grant Dexter

Ottawa Bureau of The Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA—This is a time of stock-taking at Ottawa with respect to the Dominion-provincial conference. The conference began last August. Three plenary sessions have been held. The experts of the various governments have spent weeks in considering the detail of the problems involved. At last the rough outline of an agreement is apparent. But it is definitely not the kind of an agreement which was anticipated and which the times require.

All too evidently, the Dominion is being manoeuvred by the strength of the provinces into a position where an already greatly swollen national budget will be made more unmanageable and where, if it is to be balanced the taxpayer can hope for small relief from the wartime level of income and corporation levies.

It is now conceded that the atmosphere of these protracted negotiations has been unfortunate. Why this has been is a matter of heart-searching. The wealthier of the provinces undoubtedly bear a large share of the responsibility. But the Dominion, as well, is not blameless.

TO BEGIN WITH the Dominion ministers took little interest in the preparation of the proposals as they were given to the conferences last August. There is reason to believe that as late as the November meeting, several of the Dominion ministers were unfamiliar with them. Indeed, it was fairly clear that some of the Dominion ministers were not fully in sympathy with major items in the proposals. And with respect to important phases of the proposals such as public investment—little work had been done by the Dominion as late as January. All this made for unevenness of presentation and emphasis.

The tendency has been to obscure the true needs of the Dominion and of the nation-at-large. The national needs, in fact, are identical with the provincial needs. But somehow this point has never been positively made.

The case for the exclusive possession by the Dominion of the income, corporation and inheritance taxes rests, primarily, on two considerations.

FIRST, THE DOMINION is saddled with a war debt of $18 billions which must be serviced and which should be gradually reduced. The Dominion must find huge sums for the re-establishment of our veterans and for the development of our trade. Before the war, as we knew it before 1939 has been destroyed. Trade is the only possible foundation for prosperity in this country since it normally accounts for one-third of the nation's income. Trade has to be re-built and, for a large part by credits abroad. However low you pitch the military needs of this country, the figure will greatly exceed the pre-war average. Economise as you will, these few items alone mean that the Dominion budget will be more than double the pre-war total. And each and every one of these items is just as essential to the provinces as to the Dominion.

Second, if and when bad times come, only the Dominion can cope with the emergency. The experience of the 1930's proved this conclusively. Again, no province could do what the Dominion ordinarily in this respect. The strongest of them would not try to do so.

But somehow the Dominion proposals became identified largely with social security measures—$25 a month old age pensions, health insurance and the like.

Instead of being cast in terms of economy, of the need for easy taxes, of prosperity, they created the atmosphere of easy money, of vastly increased public spending. It would be untrue to suggest that the proposals did not stress the other factors but it is true that the spending features were emphasized out of all proportion to the whole.

THE EASY MONEY attitude has proved to be highly infectious. The provinces undoubtedly felt an urge to get in on as much of this easy money as possible. If the Dominion could shout in billions, then the provinces could talk in scores of millions. The less fortunate of the provinces, in fact, had little to say in this regard. The wealthier of them, however, tended to raise the price of co-operation all along the line. Some of them studiously sought to create the impression that the problems of the Dominion had miraculously vanished with the end of the war. In the Drew counter proposals, Ontario, this significant passage occurs:

"The emergency has now ended. We have achieved overwhelming victory in a shorter period than we had reason . . . to expect. The Dominion is in a much better position to make to the provinces their taxing powers than was anticipated in 1942 when the agreements were made."

The emergency of the war certainly was over. But another emergency only a little less critical than that of the war faces this country. Of this existing, inescapable emergency Mr. Drew seemed utterly unaware.

HAD THE DOMINION from the outset stated the position not in terms of vastly increased expenditures but of the hard actuality of the present position, the results might have been different. In this regard there has been a notable lack of firmness in the conduct of the negotiations by the Dominion. The crisis of these times has been forgotten in what has been little better than a prolonged bout of horse trading. If the Dominion required these taxes the Dominion must pay for them; must buy out the provinces. It was a straight bargaining business and, as the probable result indicates, an extremely expensive one for the taxpayers who face the bill for the Dominion and the provinces alike.

Threat to American Morale—

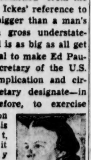

Questionable Wisdom

Candidature of Pauley, Self-Made Tsar, for Assistant Secretaryship of U.S. Navy Creates More Stir at Home Than Abroad

By Dorothy Thompson

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

Having just returned from the West Coast Mr. Ickes' reference to the "oil-baron from a foreign land" seems a gross understatement. The cloud is as big as all get out. The proposal to make Ed Pauley assistant secretary of the U.S. navy and by implication and circumstance secretary designate—in a position, therefore, to exercise vast influence on world affairs—is something that, before or not it is adequately noted and opposed at home, is already being noted abroad, in Asia, Middle East, and the Soviet Union.

Dorothy Thompson

The "system of private enterprise" is already in a precarious position in the world. Never was there a greater need for political, social, and economic statesmanship among its supporters. To associate it now with a system of private graft reminds one of the ancient proverb, "whom the gods would destroy they first made mad". If Mr. Pauley's nomination is ratified, we shall hear repercussions from it throughout the globe. It will prejudice the American case in Iran and the Middle East; it will support every foreign attack on the American international position.

Pauley's record in California is well known, and apart from Congressional investigations there are plenty of members of the Democratic state committee who are willing to tell the inside—and they life are not all New Dealers, either.

PAULEY'S QUALIFICATIONS for so important an office are a smattering of economics, a few years of success in California Legislature and Senate, a friendship with Roosevelt and Pearson-Prendergast methods. He began by representing independent oil companies and rose to represent the major ones. He began in debt and ended rich. He climbed into national politics, went to Europe to handle international economic situations in which American oil companies have great stakes, and returned to become one of the big three around President Truman. That he has ability is shown in his record—just the kind of ability we don't need: there is no evidence as all of comprehension of those matters vital to America and all humanity in a world of poverty and the struggle of nations and classes for power.

Pauley took the Democratic party out of debt—for a price. The New Deal in California was supported by the radicals, but financed by the interests—counting on the possibility that Pauley's man for vice-president would be in the White House before 1948. Sure enough America lost Roosevelt, and Pauley had, on the national scale, the chance he had exploited in California.

The analogy between California Tidelands Oil and Pauley, and Sinclair Oil and Teapot Dome is exact. Pauley has the California legislature in his pocket. If the Tidelands belong to the state, he and his bosses will control them.

THE ISSUE TRANSCENDS "liberalism." The crowd around Pauley is liberal when liberalism means votes and liberal on all matters except its own interests, these being oil. Far better an honest conservative than a liberal in the pockets of predatory interests. The interests Mr. Pauley represents would like to control the oil of the world, not only the Tidelands of California. An assistant secretary of the navy with Pauley's record will be regarded with more suspicion and distrust than the atomic bomb, and any move made by the American navy will be regarded, not as an action of the United States, but as an oil action. A friend of mine who met the Soviet ambassador, Mr. Gromyko, at the San Francisco conference, found that he knew much more about Pauley than the average American does.

The Soviet theory about the "bourgeois" state is that it is always an instrument of predatory capitalist interests, never of the people, and that such states are the cause of wars for loot. This was a theme of Mr. Molotov's address on November 6, 1945, and of Stalin's on February 9, 1945. Mr. Pauley's confirmation would lend support to these thesis, and go far to destroying morale among our people and armed forces.

As for Mr. Truman—his association with the Prendergast gang was explained on the argument, probably true, that he was an honest man among thieves. That is not a good enough description of the president of the United States.

Young, Beautiful, Outspoken and a Supporter of the Republic, Duchess of Valencia Is One of Franco's Most Vigorous Antagonists

By Randolph Churchill

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

MADRID.—On the bridge which crosses the Manzanares river leading out of Madrid towards Toledo, there are two famous statues which commemorate two Spanish saints of the 11th century, Saint Isidro, the farmer, and Saint Maria de la Cabeza—one of the very few married couples who both were canonized. Saint Isidro is a particular favorite among Spaniards, who are not addicted to hard work, because it is related of him that, when he was ploughing his fields, angels came down from heaven and took over the job.

CHURCHILL

It must be regretfully recorded that all the forces in Spain working for the removal of General Franco are hoping today for a similar miracle. They do not expect angels to come down from heaven, but they hope that, in some as yet unexplained fashion, Britain and America can get rid of Franco for them.

AN EXCEPTION to this general lethargy and defeatism is provided by the young, beautiful and enterprising Duchess of Valencia—28 years old, a duchess in her own right and a woman of property. She was in Madrid throughout the Civil War, sympathized strongly with the Republic and, at one time, was invited by the Communists to become chairman of the League of Anti-Fascist Women. Today she is unquestionably one of the most outspoken of all Franco's opponents inside Spain. She has rendered herself doubly obnoxious to the regime by visiting imprisoned Republicans and at the same time distributing royalist literature.

Recently, she was arrested and taken off to police headquarters. There she was subjected to a form of Falangist catechism which I would find it hard to credit if I had not heard it from her own lips.

The police were very respectful and tried to reason with her. The interrogating officer said, "Surely you must agree that Franco was sent by God from heaven?" The Duchess replied, "If you will show me where he landed by parachute, I will believe you."

ANOTHER QUESTION WAS, "Are you not prepared to kneel down and kiss the ground where he has trod?" The Duchess replied, "Many Jews driven everywhere in a motor car, and I certainly am not prepared to kiss the marks left by those."

Finally they asked her, "Are you not prepared, like us, to adore this splendid man?" She replied, "It is blasphemous to adore any one except God."

Discomfited by these saucy ripostes, the police then allowed her to go home.

In any other country, this whole episode would savor of opera bouffe. The strange tragic fact about Spain is that nearly all the natural leaders of the population are so depressed by seven years of Franco's rule, which terrified the further outbreak of civil war, that they are incapable of any effective action.

FRANCO IS AWARE of this and is playing for time. Don Juan's Portuguese visa is for only three months and probably will not be extended. Franco calculates that, if he can postpone any decision about the monarchy until Don Juan has returned to Switzerland, the whole monarchist cause will have been set back at least 12 months. Franco's political experience can show greater skill and daring than they have so far, this calculation may well be correct.

The Duchess of Valencia is a great niece of the famous conservative Prime Minister Ramon Narvaez. He it was who, resentful of British interference in Spanish internal affairs, physically kicked out British Ambassador Sir Henry Bulwer, elder brother of Bulwer Lytton. It is related that he received the ambassador in his carpet slippers and, after a brief conversation, rang for his valet and told him to bring him his jack-boots. Then he ceremoniously put on them kicked the British ambassador out of the room and out of Spain.

His great niece seems to have an equally lively temperament.

Demolish the Rockies

Editor, The Bulletin: The atomic bomb has placed responsibility on the shoulders of our leaders, and it is evident that unless they can devise some means whereby this power can be put to use, in the form of energy, it will only be a matter of time until men will be concocting some scheme whose results will be of vital interest to most of us.

Blasting a hundred battle wagons in the Marshal Islands may be a worth while scientific experiment, but it is bad psychology, because we are still thinking in terms of destruction and, "as a nation thinketh, so it doeth". What we need is something constructive to catch the imagination of the people.

Several such schemes would be suggested, but the following would be of immediate concern to the population of our western plains.

In the course of a million years, the Rocky Mountain range will have been worn down, through the natural process of erosion, to much below the present snow level.

At the present time the prevailing westerly winds, blowing off the warm Pacific ocean, are heavily laden with moisture are forced to a high altitude by these mountains, with resultant lowering of temperature, which causes the moisture to condense, and fall in torrential rains all along the western slopes, in some cases to a depth of seventy inches annually.

These winds now devoid of moisture content, known as the "Chinooks", continue eastward, and as they settle earthward, gradually increase their warmer current, pick up any moisture in their path, and, as a result that much of southern Alberta and Saskatchewan, and Northern Montana are left in a dry, heavy, waterless waste through which I motored this past summer.

The power of the atomic bomb is apparently limitless so why not have it assist nature in lowering these peaks to at least a few hundred feet below present level. This would allow the warm moisture-laden winds to continue inland almost uninterrupted and as they met the cold air which is moving southward from the Mackenzie Valley region, they would be cooled off gradually enough to give up their moisture, more or less evenly, over most of the three prairie provinces, finally reaching to the head of the Great Lakes. The climate would be much warmer, the temperature seldom falling to zero and rain fall greatly increased.

Life "Hereafter"

Editor, Bulletin: I find in an Edmonton Anglican church a tract entitled "The Future Life", being No. 1 of the SPCK Teaching Papers. The subject is dealt with as "Four Last Things"—Death, Judgment, Heaven and Hell.

I concede second place to no man as a Protestant Churchman, but if the Church of England, supposedly a powerful agent, the Society for the Propagation of Christian Knowledge, is still teaching this neo-Primitive doctrine the need for an Anglican Advance Movement is even greater than most of us had supposed.

Like passages from a sixth century MS, here are some of the things I read: "If we reject Christ's love on earth we cannot expect another chance". And, "God means the blessed to be our consolation in dark hours, and a continual spur to brave endeavor". And, "But while we may hope (for heaven) we must not presume. Chances lost in this life are lost for ever. The wicked are punished eternally."

I thought most thinking Churchmen of our day had abandoned these superstitions of the dark ages; that as an Anglican or Aquarian age philosophers are almost agreed upon the continuity of life—death is merely the "to come" are but aspects of the one continuum which, being eternal, is without beginning as it is without end.

Since, then, we retire from the physical aspect of the continuum only to rest in darkness and unconsciousness and return to the physical in due course, refreshed and invigorated, what room is there for the wicked? Or who are not?

As to "heaven" being "a continual spur to brave endeavor", unfortunately this has been the what's-there-in-it-for-me attitude for ages—a bribe between be our consolation in dark hours, and a children to be virtuous because it is the thing to do, the Church has alternately bribed them by promise of "heaven" or scared them by threats of "hell".

None of this is written to embarass the Historic Church as the eve of her Advance Movement. On the contrary, it seems to be badly needed. ANGLO-CATHOLIC.

Dangerous Sport

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN

A match between a British Army football team and the Hamburg Sporting club is reported as being not quite a roaring success, except in the sense that the German spectators roared their disapproval of the British team and of the British referee. So seriously was this game taken that special military police were present to report on the game. Previous minor matches between British and German teams had been the subject of intelligence reports which were also unfavorable, in modern conditions it appears that we can only play games with our allies if we propose to succeed with great caution, and we cannot play games with our enemies at all. Perhaps the final proof of the UNO pudding will have to be a mammoth football match in which the Big Three play the Rest. If a referee can be found and the game can be played to a friendly conclusion we may be that the peace of the world is at last secure.

District News in Brief

"Neverseweta" Win High School Hockey Tourney

LLOYDMINSTER — The Lloydminster high school hockey team, nicknamed the "never-sweats" captured the Border Area school hockey tournament at Lloydminster Saturday taking victories over Vermilion and Kitscoty-Paradise Valley in their stride to the top.

The first game was played between Vermilion and Maidstone, the former going into the lead in the early minutes of the game on a play by B. Rowe and McNabb. Miller scored for Vermilion in the second frame and Heidebrecht and Caskey assisted in the final tally in the third frame to make it Vermilion 3, Maidstone 0.

Lashburn and Kitscoty-Paradise Valley had a hard-fought game for the second game of the day, Kitscoty winning out 5-4. Cameron scored four of the winner's goals with Tyler getting credit for another. Lashburn's four goals were split between Larkins two and Ball and Smith one each.

The last game of the afternoon, between Lloyd and Vermilion, was one that the fans had been waiting for. Vermilion, last year's winner, was the popular choice to repeat this year. However the local squad came through with a handy 5-2 victory. McLean and Hill combined to put the locals in the lead but Caskey tied it up for the Westerners. The same two Lloyd players put their school in the lead again before the period closed. Mills of Lloydminster added to the lead in the second frame for the only goal of the period. Caskey came through with his second tally in the early minutes of the third frame but before the game ended both Mills and Hill rang up counters to make the final score 5-2.

The evening opened with an exhibition game between the two losing teams of the afternoon Lashburn and Maidstone which resulted in a win for Lashburn 3-2. Goals were scored by Kolenousky, two, and Smith, one, for Lashburn, and Walsh and Coppock for Maidstone.

The Neverseweta took the final game of the tournament from the combined Kitscoty-Paradise Valley team, with the long end of a 7-6 count. Within the first nine minutes of play, Mills scored twice for Lloydminster. Beckett was taken out of the Kitscoty nets on account of sickness and Bellan, who had played a good game for Maidstone during the day was substituted. He held the Lloyd squad scoreless for the balance of the period. Maclean made it 3-0 by the end of the second frame on a pass from Mills. The Neverswearts rapped home four counters without a reply in the final frame.

Advises Canadians Take Leaf From American Book

HANNA. — John R. MacNicol, Conservative member of Parliament for Toronto, paid a hurried call to members of the East Central Irrigation Association here last week. Along with Victor Quelch, MP, Acadia, he was the guest of the association at a luncheon in the National hotel, and later gave an address, accompanied by slides, on the irrigation.

Mr. Quelch spoke briefly after the luncheon and stated that the war had opened the eyes of many in what could be done by way of building projects as well as raising the financial means for such undertakings.

Mr. MacNicol, in his address, showed keen interest in the possibilities of development of the Red Deer Diversion Project. He urged Canadians to take a leaf from the book of "our cousins south of the border" and take immediate steps to further irrigation development in this country. "America has realized its value, and it is a high time that Canada woke up to the fact," said Mr. MacNicol.

"All this country needs is a chance to expand and an opportunity to use its products," he declared. Under irrigation, Mr. MacNicol stated, relief would never be needed in southern Alberta, as there would be sufficient food produced to look after all residents.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

MONDAY night's 5-2 victory at Saskatoon—the second in a row over Elks in their own arena—gives Riley Mullen's Flyers an even break on road games for the entire season. The record now stands at seven wins and the same number of losses, together with two ties, one at Regina on Dec. 5 and the other on Jan. 15 at Saskatoon.

Edmonton has lost only twice at home, having come through 14 times while sustaining only two reverses. Flyers dropped the opening game Nov. 7 and their third start in the arena here on Nov. 21, both at the hands of the Calgary Stamps.

WHILE FLYERS are just three points away from Calgary in the league race, it seems fairly obvious the Stampeders have the rail position coming down the stretch. Edmonton has four games left, two with Regina and one each with Saskatoon and Calgary.

On the other hand, Calgary has five remaining dates, including two with both Saskatoon and Regina. Stamps should finish in first place, and will, unless Elks and Caps suddenly turn tough with them.

OUTSTANDING FEATURE in league developments in recent games has been the uncovering of latent scoring power in the Stanley line, with Don himself and Bert Laprade putting on much of the show. Stan Deviecq also is collecting Flyer points at a good lick.

The work of this trio, hottest in the league right now, greatly enhances Edmonton's chances in the playoffs, against either of, or both, Saskatoon and Calgary. Twelve goals in three games are not to be discounted, especially when six were in the 10 tallied by Flyers against Elks and Stampeders.

STANLEY HAS gathered up 10 points, LaPrade seven and Deviecq six in the last three games, a total of 23 between them. Laprade of course, has not played in so many games during the entire season and it took the big fellow some time to get rolling. On the way up in recent starts, though Bert's two goals last night moved him into the first 25.

Jack McDonald is another Flyer who is coming fast, with six points, gaining a 10th place tie—four better than eight days ago. In that same period Bob Carse has jumped from 66 to 72 points, Doug Lane has upped his holdings six notches, Johnny Kennedy has hoisted his three and Bing Merluk advanced two.

IN HER TORONTO GLOBE and Mail column of Feb. 11, Bobbie Rosenfeld writes:

"Looks like Toronto may come up with an all-Canadian women's softball tournament after all. . . . A well-known firm here is ready to underwrite the venture . . . will discuss details with officials of the Olympic League shortly . . . all of which should break Western Canada out in a rash of excitement..."

ALSO NOTE from the same issue that seven in staid old OHA referees are having their troubles. In a game at Oshawa the night previous (which the Generals won from St. Catharines 4-3) the fans "showered the ice in the third period in disgust at Referee Bill Thom's penalties to Eddie Cutts and Bob Gray . . .

And a dispatch from Galt where St. Michaels won 8-3, begins, "Brainless Junior 'A' hockey fans are exciting up with their dimwitted NHL counterparts . . . one dope threw an empty bottle . . . narrowly missing 'skulling' Joe Primeau. The 'jug' was smashed."

Edmonton Takes Lead in Second Period to Whip Elks 5-2

Flyers Again Stop Saskatoon on Home Ice.

Don Stanley And Laprade In Spotlight

SASKATOON, Feb. 19.—(CP) — Edmonton Flyers moved to within three points of the league leading Calgary Stampeders Monday night with a 5-2 victory over Saskatoon Elks before 2,500 fans in a Western Canada Senior Hockey League game.

Flyers were held to a 1-1 score in the opening session, but added two counters without reply in the second, then counted twice to Elks' one goal in the third period.

BERT LAPADRE sparked the Flyers with two goals while Jack McDonald, Johnny Kennedy and Don Stanley got the others. Ken Ullyot bagged both Saskatoon counters.

Elks opened the scoring after four minutes of play when Ullyot sank Jack Miller's passout from the corner.

Flyers came back two minutes later with Stanley winding up in his own defense zone. He raced down the right boards and let go a waist-high shot from 10 feet out that beat Goalie Ralph Almas cleanly.

PENALTIES TO Williams and Lane produced some wild scramble around the nets but there was no further scoring.

Flyers took the 1 lead early in the middle frame when Kennedy started a passing play that drew the Saskatoon defence out of position and enabled McDonald to flip the puck past Almas. Laprade made it 3-1 when he put the finishing touches on a neat three-way passing attack with Stanley and Stan Deviecq.

PLAYMAKER BOB CARSE set the stage for the first goal in the third period with a pass to Kennedy. Elks came back with a tally five minutes later as Ullyot dented the twine after a banging attack with Craig and Brennan.

Carse was in the penalty box for tripping when Edmonton got their final counter. Don Stanley broke up the Elk's attack and passed in front of the nets to Laprade who flipped it home.

Four teams were selected for a round robin to decide the winner and invitations are being sent out to High Prairie, Manning, Grimshaw, Berwyn, Brownvale and Fairview.

$350 Horse Wins $25,000 for Owner

NEW YORK, Feb. 19. — (AP) — The latest cinderella horse is a husky, rangy runner bought for $350 which has already put more than $25,000 in the bank and is named South Dakota because its daddy was named Omaha.

When Al Smitha, the big tobacco and horse man from Blue Grass, picked up South Dakota at the 1943 Lexington sales, he wanted to give him a name he would like back home. But since Omaha and Nebraska were both taken by other horses—and there can't be two alike—he decided South Dakota would get the general idea across.

South Dakota ran as a $1,250 plater at Rivers Downs as a two-year-old and it wasn't until his fifth—and last—start as a juvenile that he hung his nose on the wire in front.

Would Include Germans, Japs

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 19.—(AP) —Return of Olympic competition in London in 1948 should include German and Japanese teams, Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, said Monday.

The Manassa Mauler, nursing an infected right hand that he believes resulted from too much handshaking, summed up the boxing international sports situation with the comment: "Let's have more sports and we'll have less wars."

Bob Carse Holds Two-Point Lead Over Red Hunter

The pair of assists which Bob Carse collected at Saskatoon on Monday broke the deadlock with Red Hunter of Calgary, the Flyer centre now having a total of 72 points compared to the Stampeder's 70.

Don StanJey's goal and two assists raised his total to 45 and moved him ahead of Bob Brownridge in the scoring race. Jack McDonald is now tied with Desmarais and Ullyot, all with 35 and Bert Laprade, having gathered six points in his last two games, has moved into the first 25.

Pug Young with 98, Doug Lane with 92 and Benny Hayes with 78 minutes, are leading the penalty parade.

Grande Prairie Beats Peace River

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

PEACE RIVER, Feb. 19.—Nearly 700 fans turned out to the Memorial Arena on Saturday night and saw "D" Company of Grande Prairie administer a 7-3 defeat to the local Veterans' puckchasers. It was a return game, the other being in Grande Prairie when the game resulted in a 6-6 tie during the Vet's. barnstorming tour last week.

Saturday's game proved a crowd pleaser and the score, though slightly one-sided, does not indicate the play as it was a hammer and tongs affair with the visitor excelling in their passing.

BOSTON, Feb. 18.— (AP) — The veteran Jack (Spider) Armstrong, 128½, of Toronto gave Timothy (Buddy) Hayes, 127¾, of Boston, yet-to-be-defeated welterweight champion, a decisive drubbing in a feature boxing bout Monday night before an overflow crowd of 5,816. Hayes' sectional laurels were not at stake.

The Blond Tiger, 128, of Lowell, Mass., gained a unanimous decision over Tony Roberts, 125, of Winnipeg, in the eight-round semi-final.

City Juvenile Final

Dennis Smith Tallies Three As Leafs Stop Canadians

Paced by Dennis Smith who belted in three goals, Maple Leafs remained in the City Juvenile Hockey League finals Monday night when they edged out Canadians 4-2 in the third game of the best of five series at the 119 Street rink, Canadians had won the first two tilts.

Eric Paterson, Maple Leaf netminder, turned in a standout performance throughout the entire fixture, his flashy work in the opening heat holding the Canadians scoreless.

Smith netted the only counter of the first period, scoring on an unassisted play.

COMING IN on a smooth attack in the second frame, Bob Fleming took a relay from Jack Davies and flipped the rubber into the Leaf net to tie the score at 1-1. Stan Patterson, left winger on the Leafs' first string, put his club back in front a few minutes later, clicking on a pass-out from Ed Barry.

Smith flashed the light for the Leafs again in the third on a play with Barry. Smith and Bob Fleming collided in front of the Canadian net shortly afterwards as the big defenceman was trying to check Smith. Both fell and Fleming was injured and was later taken to hospital.

WALTER LUPUL netted another marker for Canadians on a solo rush to eut the Leafs' lead to 3-2. Then Stan Patterson, Ed Barry and Dennis Smith combined on one of the nestest plays of the night to wind up the scoring. They passed the puck back and forth in front of the Canadian blueline, Patterson wheeled in around the defence and passed to Barry who relayed the disc to Smith. Smith drove the rubber in on a sizzling 15-foot shot.

The fourth game will be played tonight at 119 street rink.

Lethbridge 'Spiel Draws 71 Entries

Today's Sport Parade

By Oscar Fraley

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(BUP)—The Broadway wolves were howling at the door today, trying to see the National Sportsmen's Show at Madison Square Garden, and reserves were mushing in from the wilds of the Bronx and the backwoods of Brooklyn.

We old trappers from 42nd street were among the first on hand, breaking the trail by way of the press gate. But you even had to wait in line there so it was easy to appreciate the display of some lightweight sportswear tested by the mountain infantry.

There are great days ahead for the outdoor lovers. Ready for market are new rifles and shotguns; sections, folding into your automobile trunk; metal and plastic canoes you can pick up with one hand; six-foot rubber boats which fold into a 25-pound package and a five-point tent made of nylon. This item, somehow, was resented by the ladies.

THE METROPOLITAN Sporting Club members, who concentrate on African polo and two-card draw, were a bit startled by the Maine and New Hampshire exhibits.

There in the Garden basement, presenting a perfect picture of forest domesticity, are families of deer, beaver and pheasant. The pheasants were trying to crawl under a bush (synthetic); the beavers had a to-hell-with-it attitude and the deer slept through it all.

Looking at one of the horny creatures, a young backwoodsman from the wilderness of the East Side demanded:

"Them things with de horns, are dey cows?"

The Metropolitan Sporting Club held a hurried consultation and complacently rendered a deer verdict—after asking a Maine game warden.

THERE ARE a number of oddities. One is a dictionary display, probably to help the customers understand such unfamiliar words as "rubber" and "aluminum", which practically have erased from the average American's vocabulary in the last four years. Another is a dog food both — probably left over from the recent dog show.

Interested participants are Tom Brown, a visiting Eskimo, and his wife, Anna and two sons. Their cast includes a Siberian Husky and a saddled Newfoundland on which the Brown children ride.

The dogs were members of the army's parapup troops, which rescued aviators forced down in the Alaskan wilds. Brown's only complaint is that sometimes it gets too cold in the joint.

The acts which go with the show really pack 'em in. Presiding is Chief Needabah, a Penobscot Indian whose relatives and friends gather plenty of wampum selling bows and arrows, basketwork and such. The chief's cast includes Aunalee Crusey of Sidney, O., a lady casting expert, and Orin Benson, whose trained retrievers help round 'em back alive with all the deftness of a broadway dip.

ONE OF THE prettiest performers is the assistant to Frank Mansfield. She is safe from those Manhattan Casanovas (wolves to you), Mansfield is the show's trick artist. Then, for those of you who get the backlash snarls from casting, Mac's Herb Welch snatches a cigaret out of your mouth from 50 feet and Art Nuss makes a plug hat disappear.

So you used to be the champ of the block on roller skates eh? Well, Joe and Charley Steuber, the Michigan brothers, are pretty good, too. They log roll on them. Mrs. Marietta Terrill, Wisconsin's champion woman log roller, defies a ducking by skipping rope on the bobbing wood. Then there are such items as canoe tilting and—repugnant to us old farm boys—wood chopping and sawing contests.

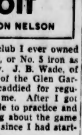

But in the end the city guys have the last laugh. These important guides and backwoodsmen complain that the pavements and concrete floor hurt their feet.

Golf

By BYRON NELSON

THE first golf club I ever owned was a mashie, or No. 5 iron as it is known today. J. B. Wade, of Fort Worth, one of the Glen Garden members I caddied for regularly, gave it to me. After I got it I was really able to practice and to learn something about the game for the first time since I had started caddying.

It was against the rule of the club at Glen Garden for the caddies to play. Therefore I was caddying for a long time before I began to play golf with any regularity. However, as I became more and more interested in the game I spent more and more time practicing. The No. 3 green, which was near our house, was hidden from the club house by a hill and I used to sneak down there to play up and down that fairway where the club manager, a fellow we caddies called "Captain Kidd", couldn't see me.

When it got so dark that I was in danger of losing the few batered but precious cast-off balls I had, I would go down to the green, place a handkerchief over the hole and practice my putting. The handkerchief made a target for me to putt for in the fading light.

I HAD BEEN golfing for about a year before I got up enough courage to keep score on myself for a full round. I had 118 the first time. Don't laugh because while it doesn't sound much now, I got as much of a kick out of that 118 as I did all of some of my rounds in the low sixties last year. At that stage of the game, 118 was as difficult for me to get as a 68 is now and I was justifiably proud of that score.

Ted Longworth, who was then the professional at Glen Garden, was the first one to take an interest in my game, correct my faults and show me how the shots should be played. Ted, who is now out in Portland, Oregan, was an exacting teacher.

IN THOSE DAYS it was regarded as quite an honor by the caddies to carry the professional's bags or to have him take an interest in your game, and when I began more frequently to coach me and give me friendly words of advice I was quite pleased.

When I first started playing golf seriously I had what is known as a "Caddy's Swing". You can see what I mean by watching any young caddy the next time a group of bag carriers are practicing at your club. It was a loose-jointed sort of swing and I attained a certain amount of efficiency with it. But Longworth was quick to point out that if I ever hoped to amount to anything as a consistently low-scoring golfer I would have to change my swing.

HE SPENT A lot of time with me in an effort to shorten my swing and make it firmer and more compact, but the method by which we finally accomplished it is so extreme that I hesitate to suggest it for anybody else in the light of what I know about golf now. It is only good if you have a real bad overswing—and I wouldn't advise you to trust your own judgment about your swing.

However, in my case it worked. I spent hours on the practice tee trying to cut down my swing and to make it more compact by placing a handkerchief under the right arm, swinging the club back in such a way that the handkerchief didn't slip out. Ordinarily I would never cut anybody's swing down much that the right arm stays close enough to the body to hold a handkerchief because it makes the swing too flat.

WHEN I BEGAN to win tournaments it was my iron play that aroused more comment than any other phase of my game. In fact, at one time I carried the nickname of "Spade" Nelson because I was supposed to be more efficient with the No. 6 iron, or "Spade Mashie", than most golfers.

My success with my irons was probably attributable to two things. In the first place, as I've told you before, the first club I ever owned was a No. 5 iron or mashie, and as I was a long time before I had a full set of clubs naturally I became accustomed to iron play right from the start. Secondly, when I did give a full set of clubs I didn't have the money to hire a caddy to take balls for me. Therefore, I practiced more often with the clubs which left me the least amount of walking to do while shagging my own balls.

Moose Jaw Again Beats Commandos

REGINA, Feb. 19.—(CP)—Moose Jaw Canucks took their second win in the best-of-seven series in the Southern Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League play-offs here Monday night when they trimmed Regina Commandos 7-2.

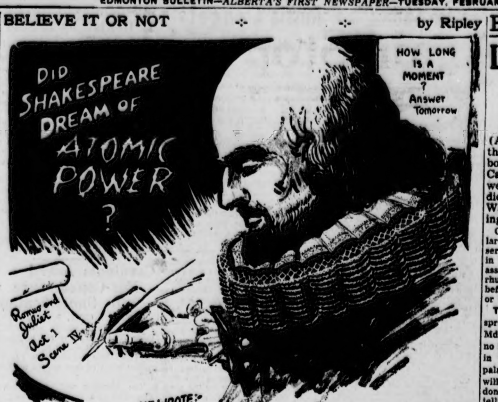

Canucks had too much for the Reginans who were unable to score until the third stanza when the count stood 5-0.

Butler scored three goals for Canucks while Lou Hauck got two and Petro Prystai and Cec Allen added the others. Jimmy Fairburn and Gordie Knutson counted for Commandos.

Clippers Set Season's Record In Trouncing YMCA 88-28

U.S. Clippers, paced by Howie Shimon, set a new season scoring record in Edmonton Senior Men's Basketball League play when they routed YMCA 88-28 at the North West Air Command gym Monday night in the opening game of a doubleheader that ended the pre play-off games. In the second tilt Legion Vets edged out RCAF 26-25.

Howie Shimon posted a new individual scoring mark for the Clippers—YMCA joust by racking 34 points.

CLIPPERS STARTED the offensive by chalking up 24 points in the opening quarter against 3 scored by the Y five, Shimon caging 12. They piled on the power in the second frame peppering the YM CA hoop to set the count at the beginning of the last half at 42-15. Shimon led the sharpshooters in the third lap with 13 points to his credit, the game going into the final canto with Clippers on the heavy end of a 67-22 score.

Not content with the impressive lead already in their favor the Clipper cagers went all out in the closing quarter and added on a further 21 points. Semi-final play-offs start Monday between RCAF and Clippers and University Golden Bears vs. Legion Vets.

Ex-Servicemen Back Likely Only Two Cubans With Senators This Year

By JACK HAND

ORLANDO, Fla. Feb. 19.—(AP)— Cesie Bluege has thrown away his Spanish book and most of Papa Joe Cambria's Cuban circus to welcome back his former soldiers with open arms at Washington Senators' training camp.

Only Golberto Torres, the regular shortstop of last year, and reserve catcher Fermin Guerra figure in his 1946 plans although a few assorted Latins will desert the Shamba land to work with the club before moving on ot Chattanooga or Charlotte.

THE CONTRAST WITH last spring's scenes at College Park, Md., is eye-opening. There will be no sighing guitars or Spanish songs in the moonlight under Orlando's palms. No temperamental athletes will look daggers because they don't think their interpreters are telling the truth.

Cambria, the chief scout for Clark Griffith, and a host of Cubans, Venezuelans and Mexicans to the university of Maryland campus a year ago. They lived in one of the college dormories during the spring vacation period, forming a Latin colony all their own, about 20 strong.

Few made the grade but it was, by far, the largest foreign contingent ever to invade a major league spring training base.

BLUEGE ALWAYS was a little bewildered by the Cambria circus and his bands, a little leary since his school days, never got beyond the "si, si" stage. Torres and Guerra, who had played ball in the states, acted as interpreters between the boss and the Latins.

"Those two fellows were so busy translating English to Spanish and back again that they never had time to practice", Bluege recalled with a half smile. "Then the players wouldn't believe they were telling the truth when I was a little critical. No, no more of that. We have plenty of boys coming back from service and they'll get the jobs. The war's over and the honeymoon's over for most of those fellows".

Trail won the interior championship when they defeated Vernon 7-1 at Vernon Monday night to take the best-of-three series two straight games. They won the first tilt 6-4 last Saturday.

Hon. A. J. Hooke Says:

'Communist Trend' of Movies Tightens Govt. Censorship

Complaints that American movies are becoming dominated by Communist thought are reflected in the decision of the Alberta government to strengthen the moving picture censorship board of the province, according to Hon. A. J. Hooke, provincial secretary and minister of economic affairs, when he spoke in the Legislative Assembly during Monday afternoon's debate on the Speech From the Throne.

THE GOVERNMENT through its board will try to ensure that pictures shown to Alberta people are free from any such bias and will reflect more truly the democratic way of life, the provincial secretary said, as he told the assembly of the superannuation of Capt. R. Pearson, who retired in 1945 after 17 years as Alberta's movie censor.

The duties of censorship have become too heavy for one man to look after the work, Mr. Hooke pointed out, and as a result the appointment of a board is to take place.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Hooke commented on the victory achieved since the last session of the Legislature. Europe is starving and in ruins and in this country as in other of the victor nations there is high taxation, rationing, regimentation and the threat of unemployment and depression.

THE WAR WAS FOUGHT, Mr. Hooke said, to save the world from the threat of statism, or as it is generally called, totalitarianism, but after our victory we find those ideals being discarded in favor of expediency and "one of the victor nations displaying a greedy desire to grab all the territory it can."

Over the whole world scene hovers the threat of another and more dreadful war, the provincial secretary pointed out, as he said that any person in a responsible position who refuses to face the issue is guilty of criminal folly.

Two courses were open to the Alberta House, Mr. Hooke said, one of them the administration of affairs within the existing social structure and following on that the removal of the handicaps that system bears with it by bringing about the necessary reforms.

THE MINISTER then outlined the work of the provincial secretary's branch. He dealt first with sale of gasoline under two categories, that subject to one cent provincial tax and that subject to the seven-cent tax, in which he showed that the loosening of restrictions in gas rationing have a definite trend in increasing the amount of gasoline sold. Over one million more gallons were sold in the ten months ending Jan. 31, 1946 than had been sold in the whole 12 months ending March. 31, 1945.

Motor vehicle accidents also showed an upward trend, he said, as he answered those who had requested that cars over ten years old should be banned from the highways. A very small percentage of accidents had occurred due to mechanical defects in autos he said.

Most accidents were caused by carelessness in driving and by excessive speed, he said.

THERE WERE 3,159 convictions under various parts of the law for infractions of driving regulations, he said, 2,541 of them for infractions of the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act. Forty-five of the offenders received jail sentences while 162 driver's licenses were suspended.

"There has been an upward swing in the fire loss in the province he reported, dealing with the Fire Prevention Act. A similar upward swing was noted following the last war, but within a few years the fire loss figures settled back to normal again, and probably would this time as well.

New regulations are now being enforced under the Real Estate Act and some prosecutions have taken place against real estate dealers who had failed to secure licenses to operate. Three applications for licenses have been refused by the advisory boards which have been set up for the purpose of passing on these applications.

THE ALBERTA government's own insurance office has shown gradually increasing volume of business since it was first founded 5½ years ago, Mr. Hooke stated. On Oct. 1, 1945, there was more than $62,000,000 worth of fire insurance carried. $115,000 in claims was paid in the last year.

Progress of life insurance under the provincial government offices has not been so marked but the amount of it is more favorable each year. But it has accomplished its purpose in that other life insurance companies have been forced to reduce their rates to meet those of the government.

Mr. Hooke then turned to a report from the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion that Edmonton's city council was under fire for their policy of not hiring veterans for two of the city's recent appointments.

HE WAS PROUD of the record of the provincial government who had granted leave of absence to enter the forces to 486 of its employees, 191 of whom are already back at their old or better jobs. 214 are still in the services while 513 of those men recently employed are ex-service men who had not previously been with the government.

The minister then made a brief report on the work which had been carried out by the Department of Economic Affairs which was established only a year ago and of which he had been named head.

Much work had been done by the deputy minister, L. D. Byrne, the minister said, as he paid tribute to his aide, much of whose work has been with the Federal Rehabilitation authorities.

In most cases his department has found it easy to work with the federal officers, he said, but occasionally they run across instances where some of these men are hidebound to the point of prejudice.

BUT REHABILITATION of veterans does not present a promising picture. Many of the veterans are now living on their gratuities and other benefits, since the federal government failed to make any adequate preparations to meet the situation.

The three federal agencies which have been charged with the solution of the housing problems of Canada have barely scratched the surface, said Mr. Hooke as he castigated the Dominion government for not taking action sooner in a situation which had been clearly foreseeable.

The three federal agencies were Wartime Housing, National Housing Administration and the Veterans' Land Act—Small Holdings. These three agencies had constructed only about 610 out of the 2,500 new homes built in Alberta during the last year.

THE BOTTLENECK in the building trade now seems to be the shortage of materials, he said, as he told of efforts of his government to secure the buildings and equipment of army and air force camps throughout Alberta.

The plea of the Calgary Homeowners' Association that they would not rent to a veteran until Federal regulations and controls of renting were lifted was scored by the minister as an effort to "take out on the veteran" their grudge against the Dominion government.

"The Homeowners' Home Owners' Association took up the cudgels on behalf of the association in Calgary" the minister said "and all I would like to say is that they should not sequal before they are hurt".

DEVELOPMENT of irrigation in the province was referred to as of vital importance in any postwar reconstruction program as Mr. Hooke pointed to the broad influence the settlement of 976,000 acres of irrigated land in Alberta would have on the entire economy of Canada.

A cultural development act is to be presented to the assembly the minister said as he told of the crying need for libraries in rural centres, of the rich field of talent in similar places not being given the chance of development and of the neglect of the field of music.

Surveys of the possibilities of cultural development in Alberta have shown that there would be a ready and eager response by the people to any encouragement along those lines.

TURNING FROM that field to economics Mr. Hooke said "People are being misguided into believing that we must stifle all individual freedom for the sake of economic security."

"The stark evidence of a grand espionage scheme should make everyone of us realize that we have much to accomplish before we reach a world of peace," he said. "Social Crediters can look back with pride over the years and in view of what they had said now can say 'I told you so'."

In closing Mr. Hooke outlined many of the anomalies of the present system including the deliberate creation of shortages followed by rationing, the destruction of needed equipment for education, the legalization of the sale of liquor and then the condemnation of the man who drinks it.

"The contention of Social Crediters has been proven," he said. "There is just one solution—the return to a Christian democratic way of life, the freedom of the individual and the control of monetary policy in the hands of the government."

Sunday School Teachers' Assn. Holds Meeting

The Rev. L. A. C. Smith, western field secretary of the Anglican churches' board of religious education, addressed a supper meeting of the Sunday School Teachers' Association, in St. Peter's Parish Hall, Friday evening. Included among the guests of honor were the Rt. Rev. W. F. Barfoot and Mrs. Barfoot, and the Ven. S. F. Tackaberry and Mrs. Tackaberry, Mrs. C. H. Harris, president of the association, had charge of the meeting.

AFTER SUPPER, the Rev. Smith gave a report of his activities since being at the summer school. He spoke of the experiences he gained at a training school in the Eastern States. He gave a demonstration of a Sunday school worship service with colored slides. This was followed by a presentation of the use of visual aids in teaching the Sunday school lesson.

His hearers were reminded that religious education begins in the hearts of young people, is developed in marriage and depends on proper growth in their children, upon the zeal of the parents.

WE HAVE LEARNED the tremendous value of visual aids, when properly integrated with a course of study. The church is anxious to develop sources of material and anticipated great development in this field, Mr. Smith said.

To close the evening, a set of color pictures was shown, indicating the way a teacher becomes an expert in instruction and class management.

Sincere appreciation of the group was expressed to the visitor and the meeting was closed by a hymn, prayers and the benediction.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

A freak hand can start a lot of discussion. Here is one that came up at the Cavendish Club in New York. Most of the South players opened the bidding with four diamonds, but from there on unusual variations took place.

At one table, West bid six clubs.

What would you do with the North holding, bid six diamonds, or double six clubs?

The most unusual result was obtained when North bid six no trump over six clubs. It is impossible for East to make the correct opening lead to beat the hand, which is a spade. If he makes the natural opening of a club, seven no trump is ice cold.

At another table South passed, West bid one club. North overcalled with one diamond. East bid one heart, South six diamonds, and North went to seven diamonds. In this case, also, a spade was not opened and seven was made.

Russia Cancels Canada Contracts

OTTAWA, Feb. 19—(CP)—Contracts involving the manufacture of $24,000,000 worth of Canadian goods for Russia have been cancelled because the Russians thought the terms "too stiff," it was learned yesterday.

Government sources emphasized the cancellation had "nothing whatever" to do with the current government inquiry into alleged Russian espionage activity in Canada and said the matter was a "purely business deal."

THEY EXPLAINED the contracts were a carry-over from Canada's mutual aid program, which ended shortly after V-J Day.

"The contracts then were put on a different basis with the countries to which mutual aid was going asked to pay for the goods either in cash in the form of foreign exchange in their possession or through credits," one source said.

"While terms were being negotiated the manufacture of the goods continued. Agreements were reached with some countries and the goods are going to them. In the case of Russia, the Soviets apparently felt our terms too stiff. Some one had to pay for the goods being made for the Russians and, since they didn't want to pay, their manufacture was halted.

"However, the negotiations are still going on and if an agreement is reached production will start again."

Calgary Ordering 20 More Trolleys

CALGARY, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Twenty more trolley coaches will be ordered by the city of Calgary. This brings the city's orders to date to 30 trolley coaches, 10 diesel buses and 10 gas buses. Purchase of the additional trolley coaches was authorized at Monday's city council meeting after a heated verbal battle in which Mayor J. C. Watson cast the deciding vote. Several of the aldermen commented this action virtually commits the city to a trolley coach system.

Jap Fishermen Banned in Areas Governed by U.S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The Japanese cannot fish in deep sea areas near United States territory or any of its "island responsibilities", state department disclosed yesterday.

This ban is part of United States policy regarding the Japanese fishing industry, incorporated in a directive from the joint chiefs of staff to Gen. MacArthur last November. The policy outline was not made public before today for security reasons.

The directive not only prohibits Japanese deep sea fishing in areas near United States territory or "island responsibilities", but Jap fishing vessels are also barred from areas under Allied Jurisdiction without prior permission from countries concerned.

Independent Charge Is Denied by Leader Of Alberta Liberals

CALGARY, Feb. 19.—(CP)—In Calgary to attend the executive meeting of the Alberta Liberal party, J. W. Stambaugh, Bruce, denied allegations made at the recent Conservative convention in Calgary that the Liberal party had not wholeheartedly co-operated in the Independent movement in the province prior to their break with the Independents at Red Deer last year.

President of the Alberta Liberal group, Mr. Stambaugh said he himself was on active worker in the Independent group and that "I never worked harded in my life" to put it across. He declared the Conservatives had "no foundation whatever" for saying such a thing.

The ROAD AHEAD

By HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

REPORTS have been carried in the news columns of our daily papers of discontent among those veterans who are taking courses at the various vocational training and technical schools in various centres in the province. The men were complaining that due to shortages of tools and equipment they weren't getting the training they felt they should be receiving. It is important that the public should know something about these complaints and the men who made them.

I Saw Today

AND

Harold Boyle in conversation with a friend on 102 street; Ken Park on Jasper discussing the coming Glenora Ice Show; Fred Dear in the central section of the city; Ted Lindskoog on his way to lectures at the University of Alberta; Nancy Tighe entering the Public Library; Ann Malone doing likewise.

THEY ARE NOT JUST "beefs" from grousers. They are not the result of agitation by a few troublemakers. They are not petty criticisms of their instructors or of the men over them. They are sound, carefully thought-out complaints against a situation which is costing the men time and money, costing the government money and which, if continues, will jeopardize the opportunity of these men of earning a decent living and taking their rightful place as self-supporting and respectable members of the communities in which they wish to make their homes.

As a group, the men attending the vocational training schools are above the average in intelligence, initiative and ability. They are men who realize that to earn a living in the modern world a man must have some special skill to sell. They know that special skills are not easy to acquire.

THEY ARE DEADLY serious about learning everything they can while they are attending the schools. In order to take their courses they have forfeited their re-establishment credits—which in many cases amount to more than $1,000. In other words, the grants which they receive as living allowances while taking these courses come out of their own credits with the government, and in order to live they find it necessary, in most cases, to dip into their gratuities and savings. It is only natural then that they want to get value for their money and their time.

Vocational training schools are handling about ten times more

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the proposal in the Legislature to urge the Dominion government to provide a "substantially-subsidized" housing building program for the nation?

THE ANSWERS

GORDON HARTLEY, student: There is no doubt that such a program is necessary and I hope the Legislature gets some action.

STAN CORNISH, clerk: Homes constitute one of the great needs of the nation today. Heavy financial backing is essential to provide homes for veterans and others, and I hope the move initiated in the Legislature makes progress.

HORACE THOMPSON, merchant: I feel that too little attention cannot be given to housing these days. Heavy subsidies will be required to provide housing, and the Dominion government has access to greater financial resources than any other medium in the country. Therefore it is the logical thing to expect subsidized aid from that quarter.

Premier Asked To Intervene In Repatriation

Thirty members of the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council at their regular bi-monthly meeting in the Labor Temple Monday night unanimously passed a resolution calling for personal intervention of Prime Minister MacKenzie King into the matter of repatriation.

PRESENTED BY Malcolm Ainlie, past vice-president of the council and secretary of the Civic Employees union local, the resolution called upon the prime minister to "turn the problem of repatriation over to qualified civilians, instead of brass hats, who will be authorized to eliminate red tape. . ."

The meeting further asked that the prime minister "admonish senior officers whose utterances were provocative in the extreme by threatening to starve out . . . protesting airmen who were protecting their own rights . . ."

The preamble to the resolution follows:

Whereas this Trades and Labor Council has already drawn to the attention of the government the dissatisfaction created by the delay in repatriating our armed services to Canada, and

Whereas many unionized tradesmen are being retained against their expressed wishes in the RCAF in England to assist in the operation of airlines for the Army of Occupation and civilians as well, and

Whereas this system is undemocratic and uneconomic, as well as being an unjustifiable burden on the taxpayers of Canada . . .

THE RESOLUTION followed:

Thomas Steele, president of the council, was chairman for the meeting.

Members endorsed a recommendation made by a previous joint meeting of the council executive and representatives of the Labor Temple company that a shared office assistant for both organizations be employed at a wage of $160 per month, $100 to be contributed by the council and $60 by the company.

THE RECOMMENDATION will now be placed before a general meeting of the Labor Temple company for endorsation or otherwise, according to Alfred Farmilo, council secretary.

Other business of the evening included a "go ahead" signal given a committee of two in connection with the organization of a newspaper to act as the official organ of the Edmonton council, similar to "The Call," a publication of the Calgary Trades and Labor Council.

Award Contracts For Highway Work

Contracts for the construction of Alberta's section of the Grimshaw-Great Slave Lake highway in the north were awarded over the week end to two Calgary firms, according to an announcement Monday by Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, who said that the Standard Gravel and Surfacing Company and the Fred Mannix Company Ltd., had undertaken to do the work for $1,150,000.

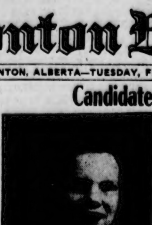

THE CONTRACT CALLS for the clearing of brush and building up the grade so that gravelling contracts can later be carried out on the 247 miles between Grimshaw, west of Peace River, and the Alberta boundary. The Dominion government pays one third of the cost of the construction which is in this province and 100 per cent of the rest of the road from the provincial boundary to Great Slave Lake.

Radio Dealers Will Aid Vets

War veterans entering the radio business will receive every assistance from Alberta radio dealers, members of the radio and appliance dealers' section of the Retail Merchants' Association pledged at their annual dinner meeting, held in the Macdonald hotel Monday night.

A RESOLUTION pledging support to ex-servicemen was passed unanimously and forwarded to the department of veterans' affairs and officials of the Dominion vocational training body.

The subject of veterans' training as radio mechanics or starting up businesses of their own was discussed at length by the section. It is pointed out that the supply situation for new radios is still very bad. Some veterans in business for more than one year have been unable to obtain more than one or two new radios.

ASSISTANCE IN training war veterans, however, will be readily forthcoming by established dealers.

About 65 dealers from all parts of the province attended the dinner, which was preceded by a conference at which problems of the business were discussed at length.

Duke Ellington Aided Maestro

Duke Ellington's criticism was sought when Charlie Barnet ventured into the big-time orchestra field.

Charlie Barnet brings his great swing-aggregation to Edmonton tonight, playing in the Drill Hall, North West Air Command, Kingsway.

Hon. A. J. Hooke Says:

'Communist Trend' of Movies Tightens Govt. Censorship

Complaints that American movies are becoming dominated by Communist thought are reflected in the decision of the Alberta government to strengthen the moving picture censorship board of the province, according to Hon. A. J. Hooke, provincial secretary and minister of economic affairs, when he spoke in the Legislative Assembly during Monday afternoon's debate on the Speech From the Throne.

THE GOVERNMENT through its board will try to ensure that pictures shown to Alberta people are free from any such bias and will reflect more truly the democratic way of life, the provincial secretary said, as he told the assembly of the superannuation of Capt. B. Lewis, who retired in 1945 after 17 years as Alberta's movie censor.

The duties of censorship have become too heavy for one man to look after the work, Mr. Hooke pointed out, and as a result the appointment of a board is to take place.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Hooke commented on the victory achieved since the last session of the Legislature. Europe is starving and in ruins and in this country as in other of the victor nations there is high taxation, rationing, regimentation and the threat of unemployment and depression.

THE WAR WAS FOUGHT, Mr. Hooke said, to save the world from the threat of stateism, or as it is generally called, totalitarianism, but after any victory we find those ideals being discarded in favor of expediency and "one of the victor nations displaying a greedy desire to grab all the territory it can."

Over the whole world scene hovers the threat of another and more dreadful war, the provincial secretary pointed out, as he said that any person in a responsible position who refuses to face the issue is guilty of criminal folly.

Two courses were open to the Alberta House, Mr. Hooke said, one of them the administration of affairs within the existing social structure and following on that the removal of the handicaps that system bears with it by bringing about the necessary reforms.

THE MINISTER then outlined the work of the provincial secretary's branch. He dealt first with sale of gasoline under two categories, that subject to one cent provincial tax and that subject to the seven-cent tax, in which he showed that the loosening of restrictions in gas rationing have a definite trend in increasing the amount of gasoline sold. Over one million more gallons were sold in the ten months ending Jan. 31, 1946 than had been sold in the whole 12 months ending March. 31, 1945.

Motor vehicle accidents also showed an upward trend, he said, as he answered those who had requested that ears over ten years old should be banned from the highways. A very small percentage of accidents had occurred due to mechanical defects in autos he said.

Most accidents were caused by carelessness in driving and by excessive speed, he said.

THERE WERE 3,189 convictions under various parts of the law for infractions of driving regulations, he said, 2,541 of them for infractions of the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act. Forty-five of the offenders received jail sentences while 162 driver's licenses were suspended.

There has been an upward swing in the fire loss in the province he reported, dealing with the Fire Prevention Act. A similar upward swing was noted following the last war, but within a few years the fire loss figures settled back to normal again, and probably would this time as well.

New regulations are now being enforced under the Real Estate Act, and some prosecutions have taken place against real estate dealers who had failed to secure licenses to operate. Three applications for licenses have been refused by the advisory boards which have been set up for the purpose of passing on these applications.

THE ALBERTA government's own insurance office has shown gradually increasing volume of business since it was founded, 5½ years ago, Mr. Hooke stated. On Oct. 1, 1945, there was more than $62,000,000 worth of fire insurance carried. $115,000 in claims was paid in the last year.

Progress of life insurance under the provincial government offices has not been so marked but the amount of it is more favorable each year. But it has accomplished its purpose in that other life insurance companies have been forced to reduce their rates to meet those of the government.

Mr. Hooke then turned to a report from the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion that Edmonton's city council was under fire for their policy of not hiring veterans for two of the city's recent appointments.

HE WAS PROUD of the record of the provincial government which had granted leave of absence to enter the forces to 686 of its employees, 191 of whom are already back at their old or better jobs. 214 are still in the services while 513 of those men recently employed are ex-service men who had not previously been with the government.

The minister then made a brief report on the work which had been carried out by the Department of Economic Affairs which was established only a year ago and of which he had been named head.

Much work had been done by the deputy minister, L. D. Byrne, the minister said, as he paid tribute to his aide, much of whose work has been with the Federal Rehabilitation authorities.

In many cases his department has found it easy to work with the federal officers, he said, but occasionally they run across instances where some of these men are hidebound to the point of prejudice.

BUT REHABILITATION of veterans does not present a promising picture. Many of the veterans are now living on their gratuities and other benefits, since the federal government failed to make any adequate preparations to meet the situation.

The three federal agencies which have been charged with the solution of the housing problems of Canada have barely scratched the surface, said Mr. Hooke as he castigated the Dominion government for not taking action sooner in a situation which had been clearly foreseeable.

The three federal agencies were Wartime Housing, National Housing Administration and the Veterans' Land Act—Small Holdings. These three agencies had constructed only about 610 out of the 2,500 new homes built in Alberta during the last year.

THE BOTTLENECK in the building trade now seems to be the shortage of materials, he said, as he told of efforts of his government to secure the buildings and equipment of army and air force camps throughout Alberta.

The plea of the Calgary Homeowners' Association that they would not rent to a veteran until Federal regulations and controls of renting were lifted was scored by the minister as an effort to "take out on the veteran" their grudge against the government.

"The Edmonton Home Owners' Association took up the cudgels on behalf of the association in California" the minister said, and all I would like to say is that they should not squeal before they are hurt".

DEVELOPMENT of irrigation in the province was referred to as of vital importance in any postwar reconstruction program as Mr. Hooke pointed to the broad influence the settlement of 976,000 acres of irrigated land in Alberta would have on the entire economy of Canada.

A cultural development act is to be presented to the assembly the minister said as he told of the crying need for libraries in rural centres, of the rich field of talent in similar places not being given the chance of development and of the neglect of the field of music.

Surveys of the possibilities of cultural development in Alberta have shown that there would be a ready and eager response by the people to any encouragement along those lines.

TURNING FROM that field to economics Mr. Hooke said "People are being misguided into believing that we must stifle all individual freedom for the sake of economic security."

"The stark evidence of a grand espionage scheme should make everyone of us realize that we have much to accomplish before we reach a world of peace," he said. "Social Crediters can look back with pride over the years and in view of what they had said now can say 'I told you so'."

In closing Mr. Hooke outlined many of the anomalies of the present system including the deliberate creation of shortages followed by rationing, the destruction of needed equipment for education, the legalization of the sale of liquor and then the condemnation of the man who drinks it.

"The contention of Social Crediters has been proven," he said. "There is just one solution—the return to Christian democratic way of life, the freedom of the individual and the control of monetary policy in the hands of the government."

Sunday School Teachers' Assn. Holds Meeting

The Rev. L. A. C. Smith, western field secretary of the Anglican churches' board of religious education, addressed a supper meeting of the Sunday School Teachers' Association, in St. Peter's Parish Hall, Friday evening. Included among the guests of honor were the Rt. Rev. W. F. Barfoot and Mrs. Barfoot, and the Ven. S. F. Tackaberry and Mrs. Tackaberry. Mrs. C. H. Harris, president of the association, had charge of the meeting.

AFTER SUPPER, the Rev. Smith gave a report of his activities since being at the summer school. He spoke of the experiences he gained at a training school in the Eastern States. He gave a demonstration of a Sunday school worship service with colored slides. This was followed by a presentation of the use of visual aids in teaching the Sunday school lesson.

His hearers were reminded that religious education begins in the hearts of young people, is developed in marriage and depends for proper growth in their children, upon the zeal of the parents.

WE HAVE LEARNED the tremendous value of visual aids, when properly integrated with a course of study. The church is anxious to develop sources of material and anticipated great development in this field, Mr. Smith said.

To close the evening, a set of color pictures was shown, indicating the way a teacher becomes an expert in instruction and class management.

Sincere appreciation of the group was expressed to the visitor and the meeting was closed by a hymn, prayers and the benediction.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

A freak hand can start a lot of discussion. Here is one that came up at the Cavendish Club in New York. Most of the South players opened the bidding with four diamonds, but there there on unusual variations took place.

At one table, West bid six clubs.

What would you do with the North holding, bid six diamonds, or double six clubs?

The most unusual result was obtained when North bid six no trump over six clubs. It is impossible for East to make the correct opening lead to beat the hand, which is a spade. If he makes the natural opening of a club, seven no trump is ice cold.

At another table South passed, West bid one club. North overcalled with one diamond. East bid one heart, South six diamonds, and North went to seven diamonds. In this case, also, a spade was not opened and seven was made.

Stars in Glenora Ice Show

Dorothy and Jimmie Stephens, professionals at the Glenora Skating Club, are directing the Glenora Skating Club's 18th annual ice show. Dorothy skated for many years with the Montreal Figure Skating Club. She joined "Ice Capades" in 1943 and travelled with them for two years. Jimmie studied skating in Vancouver and directed and performed in carnivals in Montreal, Hamilton, Quebec, Vancouver and many other Canadian skating centres. They have a very extensive program planned featuring Jimmie Stephens, the Caley Sisters of Toronto, Betty Atkinson and Charles Hain, acrobatic sensations from California, and many other local and visiting stars.

Russia Cancels Canada Contracts

OTTAWA, Feb. 19—(CP)—Contracts involving the manufacture of $24,000,000 worth of Canadian goods for Russia have been cancelled because the Russians thought the terms "too stiff," it was learned yesterday.

Government sources emphasized the cancellation had "nothing whatever" to do with the current governments inquiry into alleged Russian espionage activity in Canada and said the matter was a "purely business deal."

THEY EXPLAINED the contracts were a carry-over from Canada's mutual aid program, which ended shortly after V-J Day.

"The contracts then were put on a different basis with the countries to which mutual aid was going asked to pay for the goods either in cash in the form of foreign exchange in their possession or through credits," one source said.

"While terms were being negotiated the manufacture of the goods continued. Agreements were reached with some countries and the goods are going to them. In the case of Russia, the Soviets apparently felt our terms too stiff. Some one had to pay for the goods being made for the Russians and, since they didn't want to pay, their manufacture was halted.

"However, the negotiations are still going on and if an agreement is reached production will start again."

Calgary Ordering 20 More Trolleys

CALGARY, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Twenty more trolley coaches will be ordered by the city of Calgary. This brings the city's orders to date to 30 trolley coaches, 10 diesel buses and 10 gas buses. Purchase of the additional trolley coaches was authorized at Monday's city council meeting after a heated verbal battle in which Mayor J. C. Watson cast the deciding vote. Several of the aldermen commented this action virtually commits the city to a trolley coach system.

Jap Fishermen Banned in Areas Governed by U.S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—(AP)—The Japanese cannot fish in deep sea areas near United States territory or any of its "island responsibilities", the state department disclosed yesterday.

Part of the part of United States policy covering the Japanese fishing industry, incorporated in a directive from the joint chiefs of staff to Gen. MacArthur last November. The policy outline was not made public before today for security reasons.

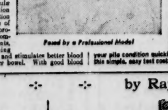

The directive not only prohibits Japanese deep sea fishing in areas near United States territory or "island responsibilities", but Jap fishing vessels are also barred from areas under Allied jurisdiction without prior permission from countries concerned.

How You Can Get Quick Relief From Sore, Painful Piles

Most people seem to think the only way to get relief from their sore, painful piles is by local treatment. Local treatment may give temporary relief from the itching, but you can easily see why such treatment cannot correct the cause of your trouble.

The ROAD AHEAD

By HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

REPORTS have been carried in the news columns of our daily papers of discontent among those veterans who are taking courses at the various vocational training and technical schools in various centres in the province. The men were complaining that due to shortages of tools and equipment they weren't getting the training they felt they should be receiving. It is important that the public should know something about these complaints and the men who made them.

THEY ARE NOT JUST "beefs" from grousers. They are not the result of agitation by a few trouble makers. They are not petty criticisms of their instructors or of the men over them. They are sound, carefully thought-out complaints against a situation which is costing the men time and money, costing the government money and which, if continues, will jeopardize the opportunity of these men of earning a decent living and taking their rightful place as self-supporting and respectable members of the communities in which they wish to make their homes.

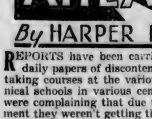

As a group, the men attending the vocational training schools are above the average in intelligence, initiative and ability. They are men who realize that to earn a living in the modern world a man must have some special skill to sell. They know that special skills are not easy to acquire.

THEY ARE DEADLY serious about learning everything they can while they are attending the schools. In order to take their courses they have forfeited their re-establishment credits—which in many cases amount to more than $1,000. In other words, the grants which they receive as living allowances while taking these courses come out of their own credits with the government, and in order to live they find it necessary, in most cases, to dip into their gratuities and savings. It is only natural then that they want to get value for their money and their time.

Vocational training schools are handling about ten times more

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the proposal in the Legislature to urge the Dominion government to provide a "substantially-subsidized" housing building program for the nation?

THE ANSWERS

GORDON HARTLEY, student: There is no doubt that such a program is necessary and I hope the Legislature gets some action.

STAN CORNISH, clerk: Homes constitute one of the great needs of the nation today. Heavy financial backing is essential to provide homes for veterans and others, and I hope the move initiated in the Legislature makes progress.

HORACE THOMPSON, merchant: I feel that too much attention cannot be given to housing these days. Heavy subsidies will be required to provide housing, and the Dominion government has access to greater financial resources than any other medium in the country. Therefore it is the logical thing to expect subsidized aid from that quarter.

Premier Asked To Intervene In Repatriation

Thirty members of the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council at their regular bi-monthly meeting in the Labor Temple Monday night unanimously passed a resolution calling for personal intervention of Prime Minister MacKenzie King into the matter of repatriation.

PRESENTED BY Malcolm Ainlie, past vice-president of the council and secretary of the Civil Employees union local, the resolution called upon the prime minister to "turn the problem of repatriation over to qualified civilians, instead of brass hats, who will be authorized to eliminate red tape . . ."

The meeting further asked that the prime minister "admonish senior officers whose utterances were provocative in the extreme by threatening to starve out . . . protesting airmen who were protecting their own rights."

The preamble to the resolution follows:

Whereas this Trades and Labor Council has already drawn to the attention of the government the dissatisfaction created by the delay in repatriating our armed services to Canada, and

Whereas many unionized tradesmen are being retained against their expressed wishes in the RCAF in England to assist in the operation of airlines for the Army of Occupation and civilians as well, and

Whereas this system is undemocratic and uneconomic, as well as being an unjustifiable burden on the taxpayers of Canada . . .

THE RESOLUTION followed:

Thomas Steele, president of the council, was chairman for the meeting.

Members endorsed a recommendation made by a previous joint meeting of the council executive and representatives of the Labor Temple company that a shared office assistant for both organizations be employed at a wage of $160 per month, $100 to be contributed by the council and $60 by the company.

THE RECOMMENDATION will now be placed before a general meeting of the Labor Temple company for endorsation or otherwise, according to Alfred Farmilo, council secretary.

Other business of the evening included a "go ahead" signal given a committee of two in connection with the organization of a newspaper to act as the official organ of the Edmonton council, similar to "The Call," a publication of the Calgary Trades and Labor Council.

Federal taxation fields would also be surveyed so far as duplication with provincial taxation is concerned.

Radio Dealers Will Aid Vets

War veterans entering the radio business will receive every assistance from Alberta radio dealers, members of the radio and appliance dealers' section of the Retail Merchants' Association pledged at their annual dinner meeting, held in the Macdonald hotel Monday night.

A RESOLUTION pledging support to ex-servicemen was passed unanimously and forwarded to the department of veterans' affairs and officials of the Dominion vocational training body.

The subject of veterans' training as radio mechanics or starting up businesses of their own was discussed at length by the section. It was pointed out that the supply situation for new radios is still very bad. Some veterans in business for more than one year have been able to obtain more than one or two new radios.

ASSISTANCE IN training was given veterans, however, will be readily forthcoming by established dealers.

About 65 dealers from all parts of the province attended the dinner, which was preceded by a conference at which problems of the business were discussed at length.

Johnson Bros., Edmonton dealers, were presented with a $50 victory bond as winners of the organization slogan competition, winning with the slogan of: "Quality, Integrity and Service."

Many Veterans Seek Old Jobs

Pre-discharged interviews of 33,153 servicemen and 1,769 service women at release centres across Canada during December show that 33 per cent of the men and 15 per cent of the women expect reinstatement in their former civilian jobs, Hon. Ian A. Mackenzie, minister of veterans' affairs, reported Tuesday through department offices here.

FOUR PER CENT of the men and 15 per cent of the women are returning to their businesses—but the latter figure includes married women taking their place as homemakers, the minister stated.

Twenty-one per cent of the men and 18 per cent of the women interviewed said they would be seeking employment, while 14 per cent of the men and 15 per cent of the women said they had new jobs available.

Smaller numbers of the veterans' Land Act assistance for full time farming or small holdings in mind. Some were undecided at the time of discharge, Mr. Mackenzie stated.

Pink roses are tucked in the filmy gray tulle which is puffed and draped to cover the brim for an extra touch of millinery appeal.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS

Doting Suitor Said Crab After Marriage

Wife Perplexed by Changed Attitude of Husband Should Remember There Is One Technique for Courtship and Another for Matrimony

A bewildered young woman wants to know why men treat their wives so differently from the way they treat their sweethearts. She says: "Before we were married Jack seemed to think that I was just about all right in every way. Everything I did was perfect. If I asked him how he liked my new hat, he would say: 'Darling, it's a beauty! You look just like a dream a-walking in it.' If I gave him a slice of a cake I had made myself, he would ask me if I was going to feed him on angel's food the balance of his life.

"BUT NOW everything that I do is wrong. He is the critic on the hearth. If I show him my new hat, he says: 'Gosh, that's awful!' Take that monstrosity back and get something that doesn't make you look like you had just escaped from the home for feeble-minded girls.' And half the time he wants to know if I am trying to poison him with my cooking, and throws his mother's biscuits in my teeth.

"Before we were married he took me stepping almost every night, but now he is too tired to stir from his own fireside of an evening, or else his feet hurt him and he has to rest them, and I can't get him even as far as the neighborhood movie. And in the days of courtship he never forgot an anniversary, or what were my favorite flowers, but now he can't remember a single taste that I have, or that I occasionally have a birthday.

"And he has me guessing. What's changed him from the flattering lover to the fault-finding husband? I haven't altered. I'm the same girl before and after taking, with the same amount of looks and brains and funny little ways, and if he liked 'em once, why doesn't he like 'em now? It makes me wonder if he is regretting his bargain."

ANSWER: Not a bit of it, daughter. Don't lose any sleep worrying over your husband using the hammer instead of the salve-spreader on you. The wise-cracker who said that there was no sense in running after the bus after you had caught it, put the average man's theory about marriage in a nut shell.

THERE IS ONE TECHNIQUE for courtship and another for matrimony. As long as a man is trying to sell himself to a girl he uses all of his arts and wiles upon her. He buffers her up with flatteries and makes her believe that he will spend the balance of his life burning incense before her, but once he has gotten her he reverts to normal and drops the role of the great lover as if it were a hot potato.

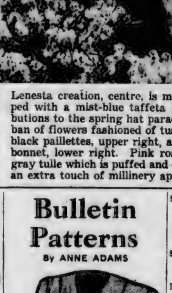

And because a husband never pays his wife a compliment is no sign that he doesn't really think that she is the most wonderful woman in the world. It is just his way of keeping her in her place, and impressing upon her that she made an awfully good bargain when she got him for a husband. Many a husband who does nothing but find fault with his wife at home, spends his time boosting her virtues when he is abroad.

And, furthermore, husbands have to have somebody to pick on, and a wife is the handiest and safest victim. They can't call the attention of their bosses or their friends or their customers to their faults and weaknesses, but their wives are right on the spot and have to take it, and like it.

And the husband who makes his wife believe that he considers her a rank failure, and who never tells her that he loves her and admires her, works himself to death to keep her soft, and in his heart thinks she is the paragon of all womanhood. Queer things, husbands. No wonder their wives don't understand them.

Debunker

The expression "clear as a crystal" is misleading, for many crystals are colored and are not clear at all. Rock crystal may be white, purple, blue, rose-colored, or yellow. Crystals are solid formations of mineral substances, and have symmetrical sides of definite types for different kinds of minerals. It was believed by the ancients that all crystals were congealed water that had hardened. Perhaps too much "crystal gazing" has led us to the popular idea that all crystals are clear.

ACNE

I have received so many letters lately from readers of this column who wish me to publish answers to their questions about acne that I believe the best way to handle the situation is to devote another article to the subject, covering all of the main points inquired about in a single article.

Many of those who have developed acne have noticed scarring or pitting of the skin and several questions deal with the best way of removing these skin blemishes. When the pits are not too deep, the method I advise is local treatment given with the ultra violet ray. The treatment must be so controlled as to produce a peeling of the skin. This often has the desirable effect of bringing out a new, fresh skin which is free from blemishes.

Several patients wish to know about the proper cleansing of the face when pimples are present. As a general rule the patient troubled with acne has an oily or greasy skin and this fact makes proper cleansing especially important. I advise cleansing the skin surface with plenty of warm water and soap. The skin should be well rinsed.

Some of the questions asked about the influence of constipation upon acne. I find that constipation is very often present in those who are annoyed by these persistent pimples and consider it necessary that suitable measures be used to correct the intestinal sluggishness. The enema makes an excellent temporary measure.

Nearly all of the questions deal with some phase of the diet problem and many of them frankly ask, "What shall I eat?"

It is my opinion that the underlying cause of acne is an unwholesome state of the blood produced chiefly by dietetic errors and especially by the use of greasy food such as doughnuts, fried foods and pastry. Sometimes the chief error in the diet has been the overuse of candy or soda fountain sweets. When these errors have been committed, the best plan is to discontinue the former bad habits of eating and to substitute good habits in place of them. Fresh vegetables in abundance should be used and the patient should try to use a smaller amount of starch and sugar than he is assustomed to taking. Meat in moderation, simple desserts of gelatin and stewed fruits, eggs, Melba Toast, and a reasonable amount of butter may all be permitted.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

A FIRST SPANKING is always a shock to a child. He cannot believe that his loving mother would wish to hurt him. If this is not chronic behavior of hers, he'll get over his sense of injury, injustice and fear.

"Last week I gave my 3-year-old two spankings in one day," writes Daily Reader. "These were his first and he was more scared than hurt. Ever since that it has been 'Mother can I do this, Mother can I take that?' Though he knows by experience that he has the privilege.

"The other day he was teasing his aunt by pushing his tricycle into her feet. I rose from the chair and told him to stay out of the room unless he could act like a good boy. I didn't say a word when I got up, but he looked at me and turned and ran. He looked so scared.

"Will he grow up to fear me? I don't want him too."

NOT IF YOU ARE SENSIBLE enough to let his first experience be his last one. Since he seems to be a very well-behaved boy, and at the age for reasoning, there would seem to be no good excuse for you to repeat the spankings. There are so many moderate types of punishment with no danger of lasting scars.

Mrs. R. J. Wants help with bedwetting. "My young daughter wets the bed practically every night," she writes. "She gets herself up at two o'clock, but by morning the bed is wet. The doctor has assured me there is nothing wrong with her. She seems to have no trouble during the day, only at night. I know she makes a strong sincere effort to stop this."

THE CHILD'S AGE is important, but I surmise she is past five. You should convince her that when she wants to stop she can. Suggest that she drink less water before bed and use the milk in her evening meal in the form of food. None to drink.

SALT HER FOOD a little more heavily at night. Tell her how to give herself a little talk at bedtime and say, "I am going to wake up when I need to go to the toilet." She can do it if she really wishes to. Perhaps some treat in the future would be an incentive to stay dry and thus give her confidence that she can.

Our leaflet No. 75 "Obedience and Punishment" may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Points for Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "Don't ever say you hate your baby sister again! If you do, I'll have to punish you. Now run out doors and play and be a good little boy."

Mother: "Tell mother why you want to hit your baby sister."

Son: "You love her more'n me."

Mother: 'No, Son. I love you both. You know I love you."

Encourage a child to express his strong emotions so that you can give him the help he needs. Repressed, they harm his wholesome development.

Why Grow Old?

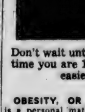

by Josephine Lowman

Don't wait until you're twice your correct weight to begin diet and exercise. Start by the time you are 10 pounds overweight and it will be easy. At that weight you'll find it easier to do this exercise Actress Peggy Knudsen does so well, too.

OBESITY, OR OVERWEIGHT, is a personal matter, not only because of the physical and menial discomfort it produces but also because what is overweight for one woman or man may be normal, or even underweight, for another.

Build must enter into your calculations. Boney structure as well as height should be taken into consideration. For this reason you are allowed a variance of 10 per cent from what is considered normal. If you find you are slightly overweight you would be wise to get busy and rid yourself of the first ten pounds because when you begin gaining you are likely to continue doing so unless you take steps to avoid it. Once you have JOSEPHINE LOWMAN acquired many pounds too many you can still return yourself to normal but it is a longer, harder road. The first ten pounds are so easy to lose!

GO ABOUT YOUR REDUCING in a sensible manner. First, have your heart and blood pressure checked to be certain that exercise is safe for you. Next, indulge in regular exercise and calorie counting. Be faithful in this and do not "fudge" on your diet. If you see no improvement in a few weeks' time (two or three) see a physician and have a metabolism test made. If you need medication along with your diet and exercise your doctor will give it to you.

Add the following exercise to your routine. It is a good one and will give you variety. Get down on your hands and knees. Raise your left arm forward — upward to shoulder height as you raise your right leg upward. Arm, leg and back should make a straight line. Head up! Return to starting position and the next time raise the right arm and the left leg. Continue, alternating.

IF YOU WISH TO HAVE my improved calorie chart send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 36 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Elizabeth Woodward Says . . .

OPEN YOUR EYES IF YOUR DATE'S A BLIND

So you've got a blind date! Jim's girl's cousin is in town . . . and you let him talk you into taking her out. You were a sap to get yourself hooked. But unless you break a leg between now and eight o'clock tomorrow night, you'll have a strange woman on your hands. You're looking forward to that date like the toll of doom. And I can tell you right now it's going to flop. But the flop will be YOUR fault.

Jim will gallop like a steam engine up to his gal's house . . . with you ambling 10 paces behind. And your date will be waiting, all dressed up in her best smile and a bow in her hair. But you'll take one glance and see she's no stand-in for Betty Grable. Up till that first look, there had been a glimmer of surprise-package anticipation under your crew cut. But it flees fast . . . she's just another girl.

THE WHOLE evening is just so many minutes to put up with this stranger. You whistle at the stars through your teeth . . . you lumph her gay remarks . . . you leave her with Jimmy and his girl at the drug store for thirty minutes while you roam around talking to everyone you know. And it's finally time to take her home. You leave on the doorstep with a quick so-long. You're glad that's over.

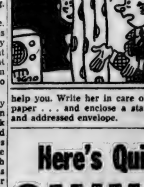

You think you drew a sour apple. Guys don't usually pull peaches blind. So why should you have any luck? But you never gave that girl a chance. She may be a honey. She shakes with the men in her own town . . . but you didn't bother to find out what makes her go.

A BLIND DATE'S a two-way gamble. Chances are she won't turn out to be an utter moron with buck teeth, bowed legs and bifocals. And the gal's taking the same chances you are. One look at you may make her wish she'd stayed at home with a magazine. But you'll never guess she feels that way. She may never see you again . . . but she's not going to be rude and insulting to you even if she thinks you're a waste of time.

One evening out of your life, spent in showing a strange girl a good time, won't kill you. And if you give her a break you may discover that she can show you a good time too. Smack back her flatter shots . . . help her up and down curbs . . . devote yourself to her fun. She'll leave town convinced you're a wonderful guy. You haven't wasted your energy . . . you've gained a new fan!

If something is getting you down . . . spill it in a letter to Elizabeth Woodward . . . she'll be glad to help you. Write her in care of this paper . . . and enclose a stamped and addressed envelope.

Slides of Canterbury Cathedral Viewed by Canadian Club

Miracles which took place at the tomb of Archbishop Thomas a Becket in the crypt at Canterbury Cathedral and an account of the transfer of his bones to the newly built choir in the first jubilee year of his murder in 1120 were told by Miss Margaret Babington, OBE, when she addressed a luncheon meeting of the Women's Canadian Club in the Macdonald hotel Tuesday at noon. Her subject was "Archbishop Becket and the Pilgrimage." She showed many slides of the cathedral some of which were direct color photography.

Archbishop Becket was murdered by four knights who came over from Normandy at the bidding of King Henry II.

MISS BABINGTON, who is honorary steward and treasurer of the Friends of Canterbury Cathedral, showed slides of the ancient glass, 700 years old in which the dramas which happened by the archbishop's tomb in the crypt were depicted. She also had pictures of the glass known as the "Poor Man's Bible," being the way in which those who could not read or write learned of the stories before the days of printing.

Slides also showed the damage caused by World War II, especially by the great raid on May 31, 1942, when 10,000 incendiary bombs were dropped on the city during one and one half hours.

THE CATHEDRAL dates back to 597, and before the war its pipe organ was moved from the cathedral and was being completely renovated and rebuilt. When the war broke out, rather than put it back in the cathedral, it was stored for safety in a vault in an open field, but was hit by a V-bomb.

The whole history of England is inseparable from the history of Canterbury Cathedral for it has stood for 13 centuries, surviving through English history from the days of St. Augustine and through the Second World War.

Seated at the head table were: Mrs. S. H. McCuaig, president; Miss Babington, Mrs. W. F. Barfoot, who introduced the speaker; Mrs. R. B. Wells, Mrs. C. E. Gainer, Mrs. George L. Hudson and Mrs. H. O. Patriquin.

Mrs. McCuaig presided.

Swedish Prince To Wed for Love

By ADELAIDE KERR

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Prince Carl Johan of Sweden has a couple of reasons why he renounced his rights to the throne to wed Mrs. Kerstin Wijkmark, copper-haired commoner, and he sums them all up in six words: "I just love her that's all."

That's what the 29-year-old prince said as they sat in the Manhattan apartment he has rented.

The chic 35-year-old woman, six years his senior, for whom he renounced his title and rights to the throne, was present at the interview.

Prince Carl and Mrs. Wijkmark will be married today at an interdenominational church.

BOTH the Prince and his bride emphasized that renunciation of the prince's royal claims did not mean exile or that the king frowned on the wedding.

They expect to make their home in America, but the Prince expects to return to Sweden on a business trip about once a year.

Six years ago, at a party, she met the Prince, who is the youngest son of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolph and was fourth in line for the throne. Court etiquette prevented his making dates and appearing alone in public with a lady so he arranged parties to which Mrs. Wijkmark was invited.

THE PRINCE arrived in New York a month ago. Mrs. Wijkmark followed last week.

Both are going to work. The Prince will open New York offices for the Anglo-Nordic Trading Company, a Scandinavian firm. His bride expects to do freelance articles on North America for Swedish magazines.

Ask Full Support For British Loan

CHICAGO, Feb. 19—(AP)—Commerce Secretary Wallace called on American business last night to give "vigorous and vociferous support" to the proposed $3,750,000,000 loan to Great Britain and to assume a "fair share in the risk" of financing another $8,000,000,000 in world trade he said was needed in the three-year post-war period.

Outstanding Report Made By Sun Life

MONTREAL, Feb. 19.—One hundred million dollars increase in assets, largest in any single year since the first policy was written 75 years ago, $241,000,000 of new business, with over $90,000,000 paid to policyholders during 1945, and an increase in policyholders' dividends, featured the statement of the Sun Life of Canada—the most outstanding in the company's history—at the 75th annual meeting held here Tuesday. Total assurances in force now stand at the record high figure of $3,390,372,000, total benefits paid since organization are now $1,800,672,000, while assets now amount to over one and one-quarter billion dollars.

IN HIS ANNUAL ADDRESS to policyholders, Arthur B. Wood, president and managing director, reviewed the company's three-quarters of a century in the field of life assurance. He mentioned the Sun Life's first policy form issued in 1871 consisting of a mere promise to pay in consideration of regular premium payments.

The company was one of the pioneers in liberalizing the terms of policy contracts, including lifting of restrctions from military service, making loans available to pay premiums, reviving policies in event of lapse, or granting a reduced paid-up policy. Then followed, in 1880, the issuing by the company, for the first time in life assurance practice, of a world-wide unconditional policy with all restrictions, prohibitions and limitations eliminated.

THIS ACTION MET with a popular reception and its soundness became established by experience, and in due course the unconditional policy came into general use. A further important development of the policy contract was the various alternative methods of settlement at maturity.

Mr. Wood discussed the company's progress during 1945 which, despite a substantial decrease in agency personnel due to war conditions, was one of the most successful years since organization. The ordinary assurances totalled $27,747,398. Total annuity payments now being made amount to $10,371,347 yearly, and provision is being made for future annual payments of $37,265,767.

TOTAL PREMIUMS from policy holders during the year were $133,109,745, an increase of nearly $10,000,000 over the previous year. The income from all sources reached the record figure of $219,378,690, an increase of $34,563,314. Included in the income is an amount of nearly $27,000,000 left with the company by policyholders and beneficiaries under various privileges of settlement—or nearly 40 per cent of all death claims, matured endowments, and dividends disbursed during the year. "No better illustration," said Mr. Wood, "could be found of the application of trusteeship inherent in life assurance practice." Total payments to policyholders and beneficiaries during 1945 amounted to $90,226,067.

DISCUSSING THE SURPLUS earnings of the company, Mr. Wood stressed that earnings in life assurance differ fundamentally from those of a commercial or financial undertaking organized for profit. Because of the long-term nature of a life assurance contract, premium rates must be sufficient to provide for adverse fluctuations in mortality, expenses and interest rates, and for unforeseen contingencies. When conditions are normal, savings are realized, and these constitute the surplus earnings.

Dividends to policyholders are paid out of these earnings. Surplus earnings also rise from the sale or redemption of assets, and other sources, which are known as "non-recurring". The normal earnings for the year amounted to $21,685,890. The "non-recurring" earnings arising from the sale or redemption of securities, etc., totalled $18,256,014. This amount was added to surplus which now stands at $56 million and with the contingency reserve of $15 million makes a combined surplus and contingency reserve of $71 million.

MR. WOOD REVEALED THAT the company, through the war period, had paid $6,600,000 in death claims covering policy holders in the armed services, and $1,090,000 in respect to deaths among civilian policy holders arising out of war conditions, a total of only 4.5 per cent of all death claims paid over the same period.

The financial statement presented by Mr. Wood said that, of the company's total assets, 52.2 per cent is held in government bonds of Canada, United States, Great Britain, and other allied nations. The remainder of the assets, with the percentage of each total assets, consist of the following—municipal bonds, 3.8%, railroad bonds, 0.4%, public utility bonds, 15.2%, preferred and guaranteed stocks, 1.8%, common stocks, 8.4%, mortgages, 4.6%, real estate, 1.4%, policy loans, 4.6%, cash, 1.5% other assets, 2.4%. All of the assets appear in the statement at book values, in no case exceeding the cost. The market values of both bonds and stocks are substantially in excess of the book values, but no credit whatever is taken in the statement for this excess.

LONDON STOCKS

LONDON, Feb. 19—(Reuters)—The stock market today spent the quietest session of the last three months. Early indications that the small investor would continue to participate were dispelled shortly after the opening when trading literally dried up.

Near the close there was a spurt of interest from the Cape in the Kaffir dividend payers and diamonds. Coppers also met some demand but there was no evidence that any of the large blocks of shares recently taken off the market were on offer.

LIVESTOCK TRAFFIC

EDMONTON, Feb. 19—Total receipts of cars trucked, driven and shipped by rail to local livestock agencies: Cars 26, cattle 534, calves 15, hogs 343, sheep 16.

Shipments on Feb. 16: To Eastern Canada, 1 car hogs, 1 car cattle; to British Columbia, 1 car hogs, 1 car cattle; to country points, 1 car cattle.

This Week In Farming

Every Tuesday by J. V. O'Neill

European Nations Suffer From Malnutrition, Disease

Hunger and disease are stalking the people of Europe. Presidents, prime ministers, officials in Europe and returning soldiers all tell the same tale. Millions are near starvation. Disease which may sweep the world is feared. Britain and the United States have adopted emergency measures.

Canada is asked to give still more help. Canada has immediate and potential reserves of food that could be used. Farmers could be induced to haul quickly the grain they are now holding on their farms. Less grain could be used for beer and liquor, livestock production could be curtailed.

OUR FARMERS can be induced to sow a greater acreage to wheat this spring and less to course grains. Less land could be put into summerfallow next spring and more seeded to wheat. The one certain method to accomplish all this is the method that would be used by the open wheat market if it were functioning, i.e. raise the price of wheat to the farmer.

We must never forget that each acre put to wheat will feed from four to five times as many people as if that acreage is devoted to the production of course grains that is fed to livestock. Are we all willing—not only our farmers—to pay the price required? Are we all willing to endure more severe rationing of meats and butter? Only actions will bring results. Mere words and exhortations are of little avail.

ARGENTINA WILL sharply reduce wheat exports to Europe as well as to South American countries because of the small harvest this year—As a result of drought, South Africa is expected to have to import 40 million bushels of corn—It is estimated that France will need 96 million bushels of wheat to cover requirements until the new crop is harvested.

The 1945 Egyptian rice crop is officially estimated at 41,851,000 bushels, a 5 per cent increase over the 1944 crop—Official reports from the United Kingdom indicate that the acreage planted to wheat last fall was close to the goal of 2.5 million acres.

THE PALE western cutworm has not been a serious pest of grains in the prairies for several years. Normally this insect reaches outbreak numbers during periods of near drought, and populations are reduced in years when the rainfall is about normal.

Since 1942, precipitation in most areas of Alberta and Saskatchewan has been sub-normal, and in the drier districts, reports of pale western cutworm damage have been observed during the past two seasons.

ON THE BASIS of the forecast for 1946 further damage is expected over a larger area, according to L. A. Jacobson of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory, Lethbridge, Alberta.

Farmers on the prairies who have suffered loss from cutworms in the past should be prepared to combat this pest again during the coming season. This is particularly the case in those districts where crop yields were below normal in 1945 because of inadequate rainfall during the growing season.

NEWLY HATCHED pale western cutworms can be destroyed by starvation in the early spring if, after they have started to feed and develop, their food supply is destroyed for a period by cultivation. Spring cultivation should be delayed until volunteer growth and weeds are from one to two inches above the ground. At that time the field should be cultivated and left "black" for a period of at least ten days before seeding.

A FIELD DESTROYED by cutworms should not be reseeded until the worms are about mature. Since this period occurs after June 15, such crops very seldom reach maturity and are useful only as feed.

It is possible to prevent pale western cutworm infestation by cultural methods. As the moths, which fly in August and September, always select a place where the soil surface is soft and dusty in which to lay their eggs, the location of infested fields is usually determined by the condition of the soil surface during the previous year. Fields which are to be summerfallowed must be worked early and cultivated thoroughly in June and July to destroy all weeds.

ALL WORK on fields to be protected from cutworm infestation must be stopped by August 1 and left undisturbed until September 15. This will allow showers to form a crust on the surface of the soil, thereby making the ground unsuitable for egg-laying. Stock should not be allowed to run over the summerfallow to break up the crust and thus allow egg-laying.

WHEN CUTWORM outbreaks are expected, stubbling-in of cereal crops should be avoided, as these fields are invariably infested.

During the coming season farmers will be well advised to be on the alert for pale western cutworm damage and to be prepared to undertake preventive measures for ensuing seasons.

Downward Trend Hog Production Is to Continue

OTTAWA, Feb. 19—(CP)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimated yesterday that the downward trend in Canadian hog production which began in the spring of 1944 would continue through the first half of this year on the basis of the number of sows bred to farrow.

The bureau said indications were that the 1946 spring pig crop would be approximately nine per cent. smaller than last year, with most of the decrease occurring in the prairie provinces. Some reduction also was anticipated in the Maritime provinces.

Ontario, which has assumed the lead again as the most important producing province, shows an expected increase in the spring pig crop of more than 12 per cent. and Quebec an increase of 8.5 per cent.

England's worst day for road accident deaths is Saturday.

Alberta Liquor Laws Declared Great Anomaly

CALGARY, Feb. 19.—(CP)—Albertans with their "bedroom-drinking liquor laws on the one hand and their shouts for tourist trade on the other hand have created one of the strangest anomalies on God's earth."

So members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce were told at a dinner meeting here last night by their guest speaker, Sir Norman Watson.

Sir Norman, an ex-RAF officer of both world wars and a manufacturer of aircraft in England, is director of the Mount Temple Chalet, in the Rockies, and is interested in development of the tourist industry.

He spoke last night on "Canada's future in the Empire."

United States Flag Is Burned in India

BOMBAY, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A mob of Indians, including a number wearing the uniform of the Royal Indian Navy, today tore the United States flag from the U.S. Information Service office here and burned the flag in the street. Walter D. Shackleton, in charge of the office, said he had informed the American consulate and Ralph Block, principal public affairs officer of the USIS at New Delhi, and that he was awaiting instructions concerning filing an official protest to the Indian and British governments.

LONDON.—(CP)—A new type of furniture which is unaffected by climatic conditions or attack by insects, has been developed for export to eastern and tropical countries. The framework of chairs and tables is prefabricated from steel tubes, while seat and table tops are made from heat and insect-resistant plastics.

Police Recover Victory Bonds Worth $6,400

Detective Inspector Bert Petheram of the city police department announced Tuesday morning that his department had been successful in recovering $6,400 out of the $8,900 in victory bonds stolen in Saskatoon less than two weeks ago. The bonds were turned over to the police by W J. Beaumont, on behalf of Peter Soloniuk.

APPEARING IN POLICE court Tuesday morning, Soloniuk pleaded guilty on two charges of illegal possession of victory bonds and to a charge of being in possession of an unregistered pistol. Court was told that the $6,400 in bonds had been recovered through the co-operation of Soloniuk and that to the best knowledge of the police he had not been implicated in the theft at Saskatoon.

The 25-year-old ex-serviceman was charged with possession of a $100 bond stolen from the Edmonton Paint and Glass Co., in Edmonton last Nov. 27, and a $50 bond stolen from the premises of J. I. Perry, Ltd., Calgary, on Dec. 24. A further charge of being in possession of 15 jackets stolen from the Central Dry Goods Co., on Feb. 13 was withdrawn.

RECOVERY OF THE $6,400 in bonds brought to $6,900 the total recovered from the Saskatoon robbery, when thieves entered the premises of the J. H. Ashdown Company and "forced" the safe. Police here stated that approximately $2,000 in bonds still remained unaccounted for. One of the bonds recovered had not been "listed" by the company as stolen. There is still about $700 in Victory Bonds missing from the burglary at the Edmonton Paint and Glass Company, Inspector Petheram revealed.

Soloniuk was sentenced to six months imprisonment concurrent on each charge of illegal possession of bonds and fined $15 and costs or 21 days consecutive on the firearm charge.

WILLIAM GRAFF, arrested in Calgary last week with $500 in bonds from the Saskatoon robbery in his possession, was scheduled to appear in court there Friday.

City Police Asked To Aid in Search For Missing Man

City police have received a request for aid in locating Asa F. McAfee, 64 years of age, believed to have come to Alberta from Montana 27 years ago. Request was received from Asa's brother James W. McAfee of Detroit, Michigan, who said his youngest sister was ill and not expected to recover.

The missing brother is described as follows: Height 5' 11"; weight 175 lbs. to 190 lbs.; brown eyes and his hair was black when his brother last saw him.

Anyone having information regarding Asa McAfee is asked to contact Detective William Macdonald of the city police force.

Sees No Likelihood Of New "Dust Bowl"

TOPEKA, Kas., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Rains in southwestern Kansas brought an observation from Gov. Andrew Schoeppel that "It will be a long time before we have another 'dust bowl'." Good subsoil moisture, plus current rains would get the wheat crop "going again," said Gov. Schoeppel, recalling that the agriculture department predicted last week that Kansas and Oklahoma might be entering a dust bowl period as serious as the one 10 years ago.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Attorney-General Tom Clark disclosed today that justice department investigators in Europe are on the trail of 22 Americans suspected of wartime treason. "As soon as the evidence has been obtained," he added, "each of the suspects will be returned to the District of Columbia to face a United States tribunal."

Construction Plans Studied at Parley

OTTAWA, Feb. 19. — (CP) — Peacetime problems of the construction industry in Canada yesterday went under the intensive study of 62 specialists representing labor and management in all parts of the Dominion.

The three-day convention—known as the Joint National Conference of the Construction Industry—settled down to detailed committee work after hearing brief addresses from H. P. Frid of Hamilton, Ont., leader of the employer group, Ernest Ingles, of London, Ont., leader of the employee group; Percy Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress, and Albert Deschamps of Montreal, president of the Canadian Construction association.

Labor Minister Mitchell, in a brief address, said lessons of the past should help fashion policies of the future.

ARTHUR MACNAMARA, deputy labor minister, estimated the number of dwelling units built during 1945 at 27,000.

Mr. Frid told the delegates that Canada should have more than $500,000,000 in new construction work completed or under way by the end of this year "in order that the national economy may begin to return to normal."

He said public opinion was growing that construction costs were too high and urged increased efficiency on the job, increased efficiency in distributing building supplies and "a restored pride in craftsmanship."

Calgary Tram Post Not Given City Man, To Be Advertised

CALGARY, Feb. 19.—(CP)—The position of assistant superintendent of the Calgary municipal street railway has yet to be filled. The city council, on Monday, ignored the recommendation of the city commissioners that C. V. F. Weir, of Edmonton Street Railway, be given the job.

The recommendation was tabled indefinitely by an 8-4 vote and the city commissioners were instructed "to retain the application of Mr. Weir and advertise in the newspapers across Canada for applications for the position of assistant superintendent and report to council at the earliest opportunity."

Price Schedules On Maple Products Remain Unchanged

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—(CP)—Price schedules and ration regulations covering sale of the 1946 output of maple products will remain the same as those governing distribution of the 1945 crop, the Prices Board announced last night.

During main producing season, from March 1 to May 31, each valid sugar-preserves coupon is good for the purchase of two quarts (80 fluid ounces) of maple syrup or four pounds of sugar. After May 31 the coupon value of maple syrup returns to its normal level of 48 fluid ounces per coupon, but coupon values for sugar remain unchanged throughout the year.

Prices are the same as last year on sales to consumers. The ceiling for producers selling direct to consumers is $3.15 a gallon for Canada light grade, $2.90 for Canadian medium, $2.65 for Canada dark and $2.40 for ungraded syrup, packed in one-gallon metal containers.

Province Sets Up Geographic Board

Confusion has sometimes arisen in the past in Alberta in regard to naming of places and it is anticipated that similar difficulties may arise in the future. To give parties in any argument over place-names a source to which they may refer with the assurance of an authoritative answer, the provincial government announced on Monday morning the appointment of a geographic board.

Chairman of the board is Prof. M. H. Long, department of history, University of Alberta, who is also a member of the Historical Monuments Board of Canada. Mrs. E. H. Gostick, provincial librarian, is secretary of the new board and Duncan Innes, 10939 80 avenue, city school teacher, is a member.

Diphtheria Cases Found at Calgary

CALGARY, Feb. 19—(CP)—Efforts to trace a diphtheria contact on the Sarcee Indian reserve are being intensified by civic health authorities following the reporting of an additional case Sunday. Dr. W. H. Hill, medical officer of health, announced yesterday two tiny Indian children of the Big Plume family had died of diphtheria two or three weeks ago. A close relative of the children, 4-year-old Lottie One Spot, was taken to the Calgary Isolation hospital Sunday, where her progress is reported satisfactory. Discovery of the latest case was made at the stockyards where the parents of the child are employed, stated Dr. Hill.

Australia Butter Going to Britain

BRISBANE, Australia, Feb. 19—(Reuters)—Queensland will send 100,000 boxes of butter to Britain during February. The shipment will mean that 64 per cent of the Australian state's total production will have been shipped to Britain during the first eight months of the current year.

27 Persons Hurt In "El" Collision

CHICAGO, Feb. 19—(AP)—At least 27 persons were injured last night when the Chicago & North Shore's Highwood Express and a Howard Street elevated line express collided at Belmont station four miles north of the loop. Both trains were northbound and each was scheduled to stop at Belmont station.

North Member Cites Projects To Help Vets

Rural electrification and reforestation were only two of the possibilities in aid of rehabilitation which would mean a valuable contribution to Alberta's prosperity, said M. E. Dobell(SC-Spirit River), Monday's final speaker in the debate on the Speech from the Throne.

ELECTRIFICATION of an area larger than Great Britain could be accomplished by damming the waters of the Big Smoky River and its tributaries, the northern member said, and were this project attempted it would also mean that there would be plenty of work in the district for returned men in stringing wires and communication systems as well as in the construction of the dams and power site itself.

Expansion on the need for reforestation in the province the member told of a huge ridge in his district which even yet supported more than 20 saw mills, but which has been denuded to some extent of its timber wealth. Fire guards would have to be dug, which would not be difficult by the use of bull dozers, coulees could be dammed by the same machines and the country used as a game preserve during the period the trees were again clothing slopes of the ridges.

Millions of feet of pulpwood would be produced in this way which would go into making the paper dollar bills, the member said, as he displayed an American and a Canadian dollar bill which were on his desk.

HE HAD PRODUCED for the inspection of members of Parliament the American and Canadian dollar bills, at the same time commenting on the fact that the Canadian bill was worth only 90 cents in terms of other currency.

"Yet" he said, "the paper that goes into both bills may have come from the same Canadian tree".

He also held aloft a set of pictures from a Calgary paper showing the destruction of air force equipment at a Calgary training station of the RCAF. Waste such as this is contrary to God's teaching, he charged. While such destruction goes on we can scarcely call ourselves a Christian democracy.

"THE USE OF SOME of the motors thus destroyed to drive snowmobiles and transfer supplies over deep drifts would have saved the minister of public works many a headache recently", he said.

WHILE HE REGRETTED that it was necessary for the provincial government to predicate their offers of assistance to outlying districts on the amount of assistance received from the federal government "under the present financial system that must be so". The expansion of medical services promised in the Throne Speech would be welcomed by the people of his constituency.

The Spirit River member regretted that there had been delay in getting the machinery onto the ground in Hartman scheme for the breaking of thousands of acres of land for soldier settlement in the Peace River district.

The northerner found a question he heard in Calgary even more disturbing than that delay. "Why send soldiers up the Peace River country where the land is unfit for farming and nothing can be grown which can be milled into flour?"

NINETY PER CENT of the wheat grown in the Peace River country is Marquis wheat and a similar percentage of it is No. 1 northern, he stated as he pointed out that many first prize exhibits of wheat had been grown in the Peace River district.

He also referred to Peace River boys who had joined the army. "They were the physical equal to any others in Canada", he said, "and they grow up on the garden produce and the wheat of the Peace River country".

He also claimed that three gas wells capable of a heavy flow of dry gas were capped in one corner of his home constituency. One of them had the highest pressure of any dry gas well in the world, he said.

Methods are now being sought to extract motor fuel from dry gas and the northerner predicted that when the process is found there will be enough gasoline produced from those wells to supply the province with its needs.

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT should be urged to find the funds for all this work he said, as he disclaimed interest in how it was done.

"Let them issue bonds, call them Security Bonds as they did Victory Bonds in the war and let them issue more and more bonds, trainloads of them," he concluded, "until they find themselves drowned in their own liquidity."

Defends Russian Hunt For Secrets

HAVANA, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Joseph E. Davies, former United States ambassador to Russia, said yesterday "Russia in self-defence has every moral right to seek atomic bomb secrets through military espionage if excluded from such information by her former fighting allies."

"Such exclusion is by inference hostile," he added in an interview.

"For years all major powers have maintained intelligence services whose function it is to acquire military information available in other nations.

"IF RUSSIA HAD developed the atomic bomb and the United States were in her shoes, we certainly would try to obtain such information—especially if we faced a potentially-hostile world."

The former diplomat said the Soviets "need peace" and "their philosophy also requires it."

An Airfield Changes Hands

Canada took complete possession of the Montreal Airport at Derval recently when No. 45 Group of the RAF Transport Command turned over the airport facilities to the Department of Transport. The short ceremony was highlighted by the presentation of a bronze plaque by Air Vice-Marshal G. R. Beamish, CB, CBE, to Lt. Cmdr. C. P. Edwards, deputy minister of transport, commemorating the close co-operation which existed between Canadian and British, both civilian and service personnel, during the war years.

trainees than ever before. They have managed to get good instruction and although they need more can do the job at the moment. But they have not, nor do they seem to be able to get, the tools and materials they need to give the men adequate training.

AT THE PRESENT TIME they are working two eight-hour shifts daily in many courses in order to get the maximum use out of the equipment they have. Some of the equipment is obsolete, and there is a pitiful shortage of the new tools which industry will be equipped with when reconversion is complete. The men, as well as the instructors know, that unless they can be trained on this equipment they are going to find it hard to compete on civilian jobs with experienced civilians when they go out to look for work.

Steady demands by the school officials and the training directors for more tools and equipment, for some of the equipment from training stations and war factories across the country have fallen on deaf ears. Some of it is being retained by the armed services, most of it is being turned over to civilian industry.

A GREAT MANY OF the men taking training were tradesmen in the armed services. When anyone tells them that the required equipment isn't available they remember that they had it in the services. They remember that they saw large amounts of it stored—and rusting—at ordinance dumps at depots both in Canada and overseas. Why can't we get some of that?" they ask. That is the question to which nobody seems to have an answer.

There is no doubt but what the services are hanging onto most of the equipment "just in case" they may need it sometime. There is no reason in the world why it couldn't be released to the schools. No reason in the world except departmental jealousy and stupidity in high places. Red tape and buck passing makes it almost impossible for an outsider to even get accurate information on the subject of where the equipment is now.

THE LATEST REPORTS are that all surplus equipment is channelled through to War Assets and that that corporation has been instructed that industry is to get first priority. This report has caused great discontent among the instructors and trainees. Surely it is as important that men should be trained to operate the machines which will produce for our peacetime needs as it is that industrial plants should be equipped. Both are necessary. One is no use without the other.

But what the men can't understand is why it is, when the war was on they got the best of everything on the way of equipment. Generally speaking they got everything they needed and had more to spare. But now, in time of peace, nobody seems to be able to provide them with even simple tools such as hand-saws, hammers, micrometers, squares—to mention only a few. Something seems to be haywire somewhere.

United Nations Still Troubled States Speaker

"There is still a great deal of 'keep - your-hands-off-my-affairs' within the United Nations," declared Mrs. Cora T. Casselman, secretary of the YWCA, in an address to the Kiwanis club Monday in the Macdonald hotel.

MRS. CASSELMAN, an ex-member of parliament for East Edmonton, and a member of the Canadian delegation to the United Nations conference in San Francisco, said "we thought we did a good job down at San Francisco but all things are turning out I am beginning to wonder if it was so good".

She said she had been speaking to an expert on foreign affairs while at the conference and that he advanced the view that there would be 30 years of peace in which nations of the union would have smoothed out their plan, and within that 30 years lay the best prospect of establishing permanent peace.

"And now there's the atomic bomb and we don't—perhaps can't—look forward to 30 years of peace," said Mrs. Casselman.

REFERRING TO THE conditions of poverty, pestilence and starvation existing in the war-scarred areas of Europe, she posed the question of what condition the world would be in in the wake of another war.

"As long as there are local depressed areas existing in the world they remain as a focal point for another war," declared the speaker.

She mentioned the present problems of Russia, Indonesia, Iran and Egypt and asked the question: "Where is the solution that will suit everyone?"

MRS. CASSELMAN said nations remaining out of the union created great difficulty in bringing about a solution through the security council of the United Nations.

With continuing international involvements faced by UNO security council she acknowledged that settlement remained a very difficult proposition and that at the present time these things would have to be dealt with "as best we can."

In her address, "Stepping Stones to Peace," Mrs. Casselman recommended that nations should be prepared to jointly yield some of their sovereignty in the interests of the union of nations.

SHE SAID INDIVIDUALS as well as nations could still maintain their principles and see that their existing living standards everywhere. She counselled the cutting out of prejudices and the abandoning of special privileges. "Only nations can do these things alone," she said.

The peoples of nations required an increase in the spirit of co-operation, tolerance and understanding and the unified acceptance of a standard of justice as a base to any structure of world peace, said the speaker.

She urged her listeners of what might be expected if there were a fall-out among the signatories to the security council agreement of the United Nations.

"We cannot afford a third world war with the terrific fighting weapons which science has now given us," Mrs. Casselman stated.

THE SPEAKER SAID she could not see how there could be lasting peace in our own country "if we allow too much partizanship in foreign affairs."

In closing she said that peace might be harder to come by than war, but that it was the duty of individuals as well as nations to work in every way toward its achievement.

Harry Balfour, senior high school inspector, and Jack McNeill, department manager, Hudson's Bay company, were introduced as new

Freedom Won In War Said Already Lost

Individual freedom for which the world fought the war which drew to a close so recently, has been lost, according to Mrs. C. R. Wood (SC, Stony Plain), first speaker at Tuesday afternoon's sittings of the Alberta Legislature, as she carried on in the debate on the Speech From the Throne.

"WE ARE IN DANGER of losing our lives by allowing control of production and distribution to become centralized in the hands of the few," the lady member warned.

When this centralized control only exercised its power over the money of the world the situation was bad enough, Mrs. Wood continued, but when the control over production is so complete that it extends from the raw product to the finished article delivered to the consumer on a rationed basis, it means that a dictatorship has been set up over the lives of the people of all nations.

"AS VICTORS WE MUST use our authority to create and sustain a real new order which is based on the good parts of our former order where the individual had his rights and duties," she said, "but which will also include the counterpart by which the state performs vital functions for the individual protecting him against social insecurity, against want in the midst of plenty."

People of the world can not be forced to embrace the democratic way of life, she pointed out, nor can we force democratic education upon them. But we can give them an example of democracy at work right here in Alberta by starting Canadians on the way to a working democracy.

THE MACHINERY of the world security plan with its international money system will place the people of the world in bondage, and will be able to force its decrees on the rest of the world, she stated.

Under that dictatorship the world's nations are now planning social security schemes such as old age pensions and unemployment insurance, which do not give security but which do place the individual is a subservient condition to the state which issues his pay cheque.

"THUS IT IS", she said, "that instead of the end of war ushering in a new world order we find men frantically trying to patch up the old order."

Men and women should take an interest in public affairs to an extent they never did before, Mrs. Wood urged. If the propaganda of

Army Prisoners Nearly All Back From Gt. Britain

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—(CP)—The "great bulk" of Canadian army military prisoners now are back in Canada, defence headquarters announced last night, and no more large drafts of soldiers under detention will be returned to this country.

Return of recent prisoner drafts permitted closing of a Canadian military prison in England, releasing a "substantial number" of provost personnel for repatriation, a statement said.

Of the last group returned to Canada about 50 were sent direct to their home districts for early release from custody and discharge from the army. Prisoners in this group had nearly completed their sentence or had the balance of their sentence remitted for good conduct.

the political theorists is examined coolly and in the light of knowledge they will be found ridiculous from the point of view of helping mankind, she said.

In Alberta we find an enlightened body of citizens united behind the leadership of Premier Ernest Manning, who can obtain the results the citizens of the province want.

SHE WAS ENCOURAGED, the speaker said, to find that the Speech From the Throne contained reference to legislation which would establish by law certain fundamental rights and responsibilities of citizenship.

Following this first step, she believed that the people's representatives should organize the provincial resources so as to give the people the results they want.

The spiritual significance of the struggle the people face was also dealt with by Mrs. Wood as she closed her speech with quotations from the father of Social Credit, Major Douglas.
